Besant, a gold Coin of old, Besant, piece de Monoie d'or ancienne.

Besant, or Bizantine, is a very ancient Coin of gold; so called, because it was coined at Constantinople, formerly called Bizantium. What was the Value of it, is hardly known; and even in the Time of Kind Edward III. it was utterly forgotten, as Mr. Blount relates it. However the Name continues yet in the Blazons of Arms, where plates of gold are called Besants.

The French Kings were wont of old to offer 13. Besants at the Mals of their Coronation in Rheims. To which end Henry II, after some discontinuance of that Custom, caused the same Number of them to be made, and called them Bisantins.

But they were not worth (says Cotgrave) above a double Duckat the piece.

The former Kings of England did use likewise, on high festival Days, to offer a great Piece of Gold called a Bizantine, and valued at 15 l. But afterward there were two purposely made for the King and Queen, with the Resemblance of the blessed Trinity, inscribed In Honorem Sanctæ Trinitatis; and on the other side, the Picture of the Virgin Mary, with these Words, In Honorem Sanctæ Mariæ Virginis.

And this was used till the first Year of the Reign of King James I. who caused two to be new-cast, the one for himself, and the other for his Queen. ter enough to wonder, to see such a Commonwealth of Order, such a world of Varieties in this little World of ours; but, when we cast our Eye aside on the Soul, that Part wherein we resemble God, how do we blush, and are ashamed at our

Houfes of Clay? that so glorious an Image should dwell so meanly, so pent up, that the Body should be a Companion for the Soul which shall one day be a Compänion for Angels; but thus was God pleased to allay our Pride, Si nous considerons sim-plement notre Corps, il y a de quoi remplir notre admiration par le grand Ordre & le Nombre infini de Varietiez qu'il y a dans ce Microscope; mais, quand nous jettons les Yeux sur l'Ame, cette Partie qui est l'I-mage de Dieu, la honte nous saisit, & nous ne pouvons qu'avoir du mepris pour ces Maisons de Terre. Quelle confusion de voir une Image si vive de la Divinité renfermée dans

To send one a Challenge, envoyer un Cartel à quelqu'un.

As to the Word Challenge, in the last Sense, it signifies in Law an Exception taken against Things, or Persons.

Against Persons. So a Prisoner at the Bar, arraigned upon Felony, may peremptorily challenge to the Number of Twenty, one after another, of the Jury impanelled upon him. I say peremptorily; because he may do it, without alledging any Cause, but his own Dislike; and they shall be still put off, and new taken in their places. But, in case of high Treason, no Challenge peremptorily is allowed.

And, as a peremptory Challenge is used only in Matters Criminal; so in Civil Actions, for the most part, there is a principal Challenge allowed of. Which consists in naming some such Cause of Exception, as being found true the Law alloweth, without farther scanning.

I

Chance-

☞ Chance-medley signifies the casual Killing of a Man, not altogether without the Killer's fault, though without an evil Intent. It is also called Manslaughter by Misadventure, for which the Offender shall have his Pardon of Course. Only 'tis to be considered, whether he that commits this Manslaughter was doing a lawful Thing; for, if the Act were unlawful, it is Felony. As, if two Men fighting together, a third Man comes in to part them, and is killed by one of the two, without any Malice fore-thought, or evil Intent in him that killed the Man; Yet this is Murder in him; and not Manslaughter by Chance-medley or Misadventure, because they two that fought together were doing an unlawful Act. And, if they were met with premeditated Malice, the one intending to kill the other, then it is Murder in them both.

to Chance, arriver.

As, if ever I chance to meet him, si jamais il m'arrive de le rencontrer.

Or thus. I may chance to go thither, peut être irai je là, il se peut faire que j'y irai.

Chancellor, or Chancellour, Chancelier.

As, the Lord high Chancellour of England, le grand Chancelier d'Angleterre.

☞ The Lord high Chancellour is the chief Magistrate of the Nation, and the second Person next to the Royal Family, none but the Primate of England having the Precedency. He is made by the King, by delivery of the great Seal to him, and taking an Oath.

All other Judges are tied to the Law, and must not swerve from it. Whereas the Chancellour has the King's absolute Power, to moderate and temper the written Law; subjecting himself only to the Law of Nature and Conscience, and ordering all Things juxta æquum & bonum. However, in some Cases, he must observe the form of Proceeding, as other ordinary Judges.

The Title of Chancellour is also given to several other Officers. And accordingly there is the Chancellour of the Duchy of Lancaster; whose Office is principally in that Court to judge and determine all Controversies between the King and his Tenants of the Duchy Land, and otherwise to direct all the King's Affairs belonging to that Court.

There is also the Chancellour of the Order of the Garter, a Chancellour of the University, a Chancellour of the Court of Augmentations, a Chancellour of the first Fruits, Chancellour of Courts, and Chancellour of the Diocese, this last being called Official in French.

Chancery, or Chancery Court, la Chancellerie, la Cour de Chancellerie.

☞ The Chancery is a Court of Equity and Conscience, moderating the Rigour of other Courts that are strictly tied to the letter of the Law, and having for the chief Judge thereof the Lord Chancellour of England, or else the Lord Keeper of the great Seal. And under him there are all these Officers belonging to this Court, viz. twelve Masters of the Chancery, whereof some always sit by turns on the Bench, as Assistants. But, in the absence of the Lord Chancellour, or Lord Keeper, the Master of the Rolls sits as Judge.

Next to the Masters of the Chancery, come the six Clerks, who have each of them about twenty Clerks under them, in nature of Attorneys in the Court. Then there is two chief Examiners, who have each of them several Clerks; and one chief Register, who hath usually four or five Deputies.

To these add the Clerk of the Crown, the Warden of the Fleet, the Usher, Sergeant at Arms, and Crier of the Court; the Curators and their Clerks, the Clerks of the petty Bag, the Clerk of the Hanaper, the Comptroller of the Hanaper, the Clerk of Appeals, the Clerk of the Faculties, the Sealer, and the Chase-wax; the Clerk of the Patents, Clerk of Presentations, Clerk of Dismissions, Clerk of Licenses to alienate, Clerks of the Inrollments, Clerks of the Protections, Clerk of the Subpœnas, Clerk of the Affidavits, &c.

Chappel, Chapelle.

As, a fine Chappel, une belle Chapelle.

The King's Chappel, la Chapelle Royale.

☞ There are several Sorts of Chappels.

Some adjoining to a Church, as a Parcel of the same, which Men of worth do build, ut ibidem familiaria Sepulchra sibi constituunt.

Others separate from the Mother Church, where the Parish is wide; and commonly called Chappels of Ease, because built for the Use of those Parishioners that dwell too far from the Church.

Now a Chappel of Ease is served by some inferior Curate, provided at the Charge of the Rector, or of them that have benefit by it, as the Composition or Custom is.

There are also free Chappels, which have Maintenance perpetual towards the upholding thereof, and Wages of the Curate, by some Lands charitably bestowed upon them, without the Charge of the Rector or Parish.

Lastly, there are private Chappels, such as the King's and Noblemens Chappels.

Chattels, (a Law-Word) les Biens d'une Personne, ce qu'il a en son propre.

Chattels are either personal, or real, les Biens d'une Personne sont meubles, ou immeubles.

Chattels personal may be so called in two respects. One, because they belong immediately to the person of a Man; as a Bow, or a Horse. The other, for that being any way withheld injuriously from us, we have no means to recover them but by personal Action.

Chattels real be such as either do not appertain to the Person, but to some other Thing by way of Dependency; as a Box, with Charters of Land, Apples upon a Tree, or a Tree it self growing on the Ground. Or else such as are Necessary, issuing out of some immovable Thing to a Person, as a Lease, or Rent for Term of Years.

One Thing is observable, That ready Money, Hawks, and Hounds, are not accounted any Goods or Chattels. Money, because of it self 'tis not of worth, but as by Consent of Men for their easier Traffick, or Permutation of Things necessary for Life. Hawks and Hounds, for that they are fera nature.

to Chatter, babiller, causer, caqueter; gazouiller; craqueter.

If one should let her alone, she could chatter all the day long, si on la laissoit faire, elle s'amuseroit à causer toute la Journée.

Conjuration, Conjuraison, Parti de plusieurs Personnes unies ensemble qui se sont donné la foi pour attenter sur un Souverain, ou sur son Etat; Communication de quécun avec le Diable, ou quèques Esprits familiers.

& The Word Conjuraton signifies a Plot (or Compact) made by Men, combining themselves together, by Oath or Promise, to do any publick Harm. But in the Common Law it is specially used for such as have personal Conference with the Devil, or evil Spirits, to know any Secret, or to effect any Purpose.

The Difference between Conjuraton and Witchcraft seems to be this, That the Conjurator seems by Prayers and Invocations of God's powerful Names, to compel the Devil to say or do what he commands him. The Witch deals rather by a friendly and voluntary Conference and Agreement with the Devil or Familiar, to have his Desires or Turns served, for Soul, Blood, or other Gift offered unto him. So that a Conjurator compacts for Curiosity to know Secrets, and work Marvels; and the Witch, of meer malice, to do Mischief.

Now both these differ from Inchantments or Sorceries. For the former two have personal Conference with the Devil, and the other meddle only with Medicines, and ceremonial Forms of Words (called commonly Charms) without Apparition.

To raise up Devils with Conjuratons, invoquer les Demons par les Charmes.

Is this all your Consideration for my Pains and Industry? est ce ici toute la Recompense que vous me faites de mes Peines & de mon Industrie?

Or thus. As, to take a Thing into consideration, aviser (songer) à quelque chose.

Consideration, in Law, is the material Cause of a Contract, without which it would not be effectual, or binding. This Consideration is either expressed, or implied. Expressed, as if a Man bargain to give 20 Shillings for a Horse; Implied, as when the Law itself inforceth a Consideration. As, if a Man come into a common Inn, and there stays some time, taking both Meat and Lodging for himself and his Horse, the Law presumeth that he intends to pay for both, though nothing be farther covenanted betwixt him and his Host. And therefore, if he discharge not the House, the Host may stay his Horse. Also there is a Consideration of Nature and Blood, and a valuable Consideration. So, if a Man be indebted to divers others; and yet, in consideration of natural Affection, gives all his Goods to his Son or Cousin, this shall be contrived a fraudulent Gift, by an Act of Queen Eliz. which Act intends a valuable Consideration.

All Things conspire to his Advancement, tout concourt à son Elevation.

Conspired against, contre qui l'on a conspiré.

Conspiring, Conspiration, ou l'action de conspirer; l'action de concourir.

Constable, Connetable.

Je ren le Mot de Constable par celui de Connetable en François, parce que c'est le plus court. Je sais bien, qu'il y a beaucoup de difference dans la Charge des Connetables Anglois, & celle des Connetables de France.

Mais aussi, quand je dis Connetable, j'enten un Connetable à l'Angloise; & c'est ce qu'il faut maintenant expliquer.

Voici de quelle maniere cela se fait par les Jurisconsultes Anglois.

The Lord Marshal of England was also called Constable of England. Whose Office consists in the Care of the common Peace of the Land, in Deeds of Arms, and Matters of War.

Out of this High Magistracy were drawn the lower Constables, called Constables of Hundreds and Franchises, and now High Constables. High, in opposition to those inferior and common Constables, which are now in every Town, occasioned by the Increase both of People and Offences.

The Office of these being chiefly to keep the common Peace of the Land, to apprehend Offenders, when called thereunto, and to command the Watch in the Night, they may be called in this last Sense in French Capitaines du Guet.

Besides these, there be Officers of particular Places called by this Name; as Constable of the Tower, Constable of Dover-Castle, &c. Which may be rendered in French by the Word Gouverneur, Capitaine, or Chatelain.

Copy-hold is a Tenure, for which the Tenant hath nothing to shew but the Copy of the Rolls made by the Steward of his Lords Court. For, as the Steward inrolls and makes Remembrances of all other Things done in the Lords Court; so he doth also of such Tenants as be admitted in the Court, to any Parcel of Land or Tenement belonging to the Mannor. And the Transcript of this is called The Copy of the Court-Roll, which is all the Tenant takes from him, and keeps as his only Evidence. This Tenure is much the same as base Tenure, or Tenure in Villenage, and Copyhold is but a new Name. Yet it is not simply at the Will of the Lord, but according to the Custom of the Mannor. So that, if a Copy-holder break not the Custom of the Mannor, and thereby forfeit his Tenure; he seems not so much to stand at the Lords Courtesy for his Right, as to be displaced hand over head at his pleasure.

These Customs of Mannors be infinite, varying in one Point or other almost in every several Mannor. First, some Copy-holds are fineable at Will, and some certain. That which is fineable at Will, the Lord takes at his pleasure; But, if it exceed two Years Revenue, the Chancery, King's Bench, Common Pleas, or Exchequer, may reduce them to Reason. That which is Certain is a kind of Inheritance, and called in many Places Customary; because the Tenant dying, and the Hold being void, the Next of blood, paying the Customary Fine (as two Shillings for an Acre, or such like) may not be denied his Admission.

Secondly, some Copy-holders have, by Custom, the Wood growing upon their own Land; which by Law they could not have.

Thirdly, some Copy-holders hold by the Verge in ancient Demesne; and, although they hold by Copy, yet are in account a kind of Freeholder. For, if such a one commit Felony, the King hath Annum, Diem, & Vastum, as in case of Freehold.

Some other hold by Common Tenure, called Meer Copy-hold; and they committing Felony, their Land escheateth to the Lord of the Mannor.

In short, a Copy-holder, or a Tenant by Copy of Court-Roll, is He which is admitted Tenant of any Lands or Tenements within a Mannor, that Time out of mind, by Use and Custom of the Mannor, have been demisable and demised to such as will take the same in Fee, or Fee-tail, for Life, Years, or Will, according to the Custom of the Mannor, by Copy of Court-Roll of the said Mannor.

A County, or Earldom, une Comté, un Comté.

As, the County of Burgundy, la Comté de Bourgogne, la franche Comté.

The Word County does properly signify in English a Circuit or Portion of the Realm, for the better Government thereof, and the more easy Administration of Justice, all divided into Counties, or Shires, the first a French, the last a Saxon Word. So that there is no Part of the Kingdom that lies not within some County; and every County is governed by a yearly Officer, called a Sheriff; who, among other Duties belonging to his Office, puts in execution all the Commandments and Judgments of the King's Courts.

Of these Counties, there be four of especial mark, which therefore are termed Counties Palatine; viz. the County Palatine of Lancaster, Chester, Durham, and Ely. The Jurisdiction of which Counties was heretofore of so high a nature, that, whereas all Pleas of the Crown be ordinarily held and sped in the King's Name, and cannot pass in the Name of any other; the chief Governours of these, by especial Charter from the King, did fend out all Writs in their own Name, and did all Things touching Justice as absolutely as the Prince himself in other Counties, only acknowledging him their Superiour and Sovereign. But this Power is now much abridged.

Besides these Counties of both sorts, there be likewise Counties Corporate. And these be certain Cities, or ancient Boroughs of the Land, upon which the Kings of England have thought good to bestow such extraordinary Liberties. Of these the famous City of London is one and the principal, York another, the City of Chester a third, Canterbury a fourth; besides the Counties of Norwich, Worcester, Kingstone upon Hull, Haverford-West, Lichfield, and several others.

The Word County is also used for the County-Court, which the Sheriff keeps every month within his Charge, either by himself or his Deputy the Under-Sheriff.

Besides this County-Court, held every Month, there is another County-Court, called the Turn, which is held twice every Year. This Court had in ancient Times the Cognizance of great Matters, but it is now very much abridged. Yet it hath still the Determination of certain Trespasses and Debts, under forty Shillings.

Court-Baron, Cour Fonciere, Cour du Seigneur Foncier. Court-Leet, c'est aussi une Cour fonciere, mais qui regarde proprement les Offenses.

Every Lord of a Mannor was anciently called a Baron, from whence their Courts were called Court-Barons.

Now a Court-Baron is twofold. The one of Freeholders, which is properly called the Court-Baron; wherein the Suitors (that is, the Freeholders) be Judges. The other, of Copy-holders, whereof the Lord, or his Steward, is Judge. Which Court is kept by the Copy-holders for the Customary Tenants, in order to accept Surrenders to the Use of others, and to make both Admittances and Grants.

Many Lords, together with these Courts-Baron, have likewise Leets adjoyned. Whereby they do inquire of such Transgressions as are subject to the Inquiry and Correction of this Court. But this Court, in whose Mannor soever it be kept, is accounted the King's Court; because the Authority thereof originally belongs to the Crown.

Some Lawyers say, this Court was first derived from the Sheriffs Turn. And it inquireth of all Offences under High Treason, committed against the Crown and Dignity of the King; though it cannot punish many, but must certify them to the Justices of Assize.

The Jurisdiction of Bayliffs, within the Dutchy of Normandy, in the compafs of their Provinces, seems to be the same as a Court-Leet, or at least very like.

Court-Christian, Cour qui juge des Affaires de la Religion.

As in the King's Courts humane Laws are maintained, so in the Court-Christian the Laws of Christ should be the Rule. And therefore the Judges are Divines, as Archbishops, Bishops, Arch-Deacons, and the like.

In these Courts are handled Matters especially appertaining to Christianity, and such as cannot be well judged of, without a competent knowledge in Divinity.

Heretofore they were held by Archbishops, and Bishops, as from the Pope, because he challenged the Superiority in all Causes Spiritual. But, since his Rejection, they hold them by the King's Authority, Virtute Magistratus sui, as the Admiral of England holds his. Whereupon it proceedeth, that they send out their Precepts in their own Names, and not in the King's, as the Justices of the King's Courts do. And therefore, as the Appeals from these Courts did ly to Rome, Now by a Statute of Henry VIII. it lieth to the King in his Chancery.

†The Costs and Damages of Suit are to the Plaintiff, and contain the Hinderance he hath suffered by the Wrong done him by the Defendant. But, when the Plaintiff declares the Wrong done to him to the Damage of such a Sum; This is to be taken relatively for the Wrong which is passed before the Writ brought, and cannot extend to Costs of Suit, which are future, and of another nature.

Damage Cleer (Damna Clericorum) was originally no other than a Gratuity given the Protonotaries, and their Clerks, for drawing special Writs and Pleadings.

Which afterwards grew to a Certainty of 2 s. in the Pound, and was (as some have fancied) a Tenth Part of the Damages recovered. But it appears by ancient Records, that it has been uncertain; sometimes a sixth, and at other times a third Part. Now 'tis assessed by the Tenth Part in the Common Pleas, and the Twentieth Part in the King's Bench and Exchequer, of all Damages (exceeding five Marks) recovered either by Verdict, Confession, or Judgement of the Court, in all Actions upon the Case, Covenant, Trespass, Battery, false Imprisonment, Dower, and all others, wherein the Damages are uncertain. Which the Plaintiff must pay to the Protonotary, or chief Officer of that Court, wherein they are recovered, before he shall have Execution for them.

Denison, or Denizen, Regnicole affranchi par les Lettres du Roi, qui en vertu de ces Lettres jouit à peu près des mêmes Privileges que les Naturels du Pais. C'est un Degré de Naturalization en usage en Angleterre.

A Denison signifies in Law an Alien infranchised in England by the King's Charter, and inabled almost in all Respects to do as native Subjects; namely to purchase and to possess Lands, to be capable of any Office, or Dignity. Yet it is short of Naturalization, because a Stranger naturalized may inherit Lands by Descent, which a Man, made only a Denizen, cannot. And in the Charter, whereby a Man is made Denison, there is commonly contained some one Clause or other that abridgeth him of that full Benefit which natural Subjects do enjoy. Now, when a Man is thus Infranchised, he is said to be under the King's Protection. Before which Time he can enjoy nothing in England; Nay he and his Goods might be seized to the King's Use.

Deodand. On appelle ainsi, dans le Droit d'Angleterre, un Cheval, un Chariot, ou chose semblable, qui a tué quelqu'un; & qui, étant adjugé au Roi, est distribué aux Pauvres par son Aumônier.

A Deodand is a Thing given, or rather forfeited (as it were) to God, for the Pacification of his Wrath, in case of a Misadventure, whereby any Christian man comes

- comes to a violent End, without the fault of any reasonable Creature. For Example, If a Horse should strike his Keeper, and so kill him; If a Man, in driving a Cart, and seeking to redress any Thing about it, should so fall as the Cart-wheel running over him should kill him; If one should be felling of a Tree, and giving Warning to Company by, when the Tree were near falling, to look to themselves, and if any of them should be slain nevertheless by the fall of the Tree; In the first of these Cases, the Horse; in the second, the Cart-wheel, Cart and Horses; and in the third, the Tree is to be a Deodand, or given to God, that is to be sold and distributed to the Poor, for an Expiation of that dreadful Event, though effected by unreasonable, yea, senseless and inanimate Creatures. Which Law is in imitation of that in Exodus, Chap. 21.

Dragon, Dragon, sorte de Serpent.

Voici la Description qu'en donne Mr. Richalet, dans son Dictionnaire François, tirée de Jonston.

Le Dragon, dit-il, est une sorte de Serpent tres venimeux, de Couleur noire, rousse, ou cendrée; excepté que sous le Ventre, il est d'une Couleur tirant sur le verd. Il naît dans les Indes, & dans l'Afrique; mais il est de différente Grandeur, selon les Pais. Il y en a de dix, de douze, de quinze Coudées, & même de plus.

Il y a des Dragons ailes, les uns qui ont deux piez seulement, & d'autres qui en ont plusieurs, faits comme les piez des Oies. Il y en a qui ont des Crêtes, d'autres qui ont de l'air du Visage de l'Homme, & quelques uns qui tiennent des Cochons.

Le Dragon sifflé fort, il a l'Ouïe subtile, la Veüe bonne, & beaucoup de Vigilance. Il est ennemi de l'Elephant & de l'Aigle.

A cette Description on pourroit ajouter celle de ces nouveaux Dragons, qui se sont rendus depuis peu si fameux par leur Mission Dragonale. Ce sont des Dragons qui ont la figure de l'Homme, & c'est en quoi consiste toute leur Humanité. Des Apôtres de fer & d'acier, qui ne reconnoissent la plupart d'autre Loi que le Carnage, ni d'autre Evangile que la Rapine & la Violence. Mechans Organes pour la Propagation de la Foi. On dit, que le Dragon craint si fort l'Aigle, que l'entendant siffler il s'enfuit dans sa Caverne. Et qui sait si l'Aigle Triomphante, qui vient de rongner le Croissant, ne viendra pas un Jour..... ?

The Dutchy of Lancaster, le Duché de Lancaster.

The Dutchy-Court. So is called the Court wherein all Matters appertaining to the Dutchy of Lancaster are decided by the Decree of the Chancellour of that Court. Which Court grew out of the Grant of King Edward the Third; who gave the Dutchy to his Son, John of Gaunt, and indowed it with such Royal Right as the County Palatine of Chester had. And, whereas it was afterwards extinct in the Person of Henry the Fourth, by reason of the Union of it with the Crown; he separated the Dutchy from the Crown, and settled it in the natural Person of Himself and his Heirs. In which estate it continued, during the Reigns of Henry the Fifth, and Henry the Sixth, that descended of Him.

But Edward the Fourth appropriated this Dutchy to the Crown again, suffering however the Court and Officers to remain as he found them. And in this manner it came, together with the Crown, to Henry the Seventh. Who again separated it, and so left it to his Posterity, who still enjoy it.

The Officers belonging to this Court are the Chancellor, Attorney, Receiver general, Clerk of the Court, and the Messenger. Besides these, there be certain Assistants of this Court; as one Attorney of the Dutchy in the Chancery, four learned Men in the Law, retained of Council with the King in the said Court.

LES François ont trois Sortes d'e. 1. L'e Masculin, qui se prononce aigu, comme le dernier e du Mot Piété.

2. L'e Féminin, qui se fait à peine entendre, comme en ces Mots tulipe, jonquille.

3. L'e ouvert, qui se prononce ai, comme dans ces Mots, Fer, Hiver, & dans la première Syllabe de Fête.

Ces trois Sortes d'e sont aussi en Usage dans la Langue Angloise.

On y prononce l'e aigu, 1. lors qu'il est suivi d'une Consonne, avec un e à la fin du Mot.

Comme en complete, extreme, serene, scene, sphere, qui se prononcent complète, extrême, seréne, scène, sphère.

2. à la fin de ces Mots, Epitome, Jubile, Jesse, Manassé, Penelope, Siloe, Abilene, & quelques autres de cette nature. A quoi ajoutez l'e d'Antipodes & de lest.

3. Quand on veut bien prononcer distinctement les Mots Composés de la Preposition Inseparable re, on donne à l'e un Son Masculin; comme en ces Mots to reprint, to reingage.

L'e féminin se trouve communément, aussi bien que dans notre Langue, 1. à la fin des Mots. Exemple, pale, face, care, make, fame, &c. où l'e ne sert le plus souvent qu'à faire prononcer la Syllabe un peu longue.

2. L'e est féminin, cd. a un Son bref, lors qu'il est suivi d'aucune de ces Consonnes, savoir d, l, r, s, t, à la fin d'un Mot qui a plusieurs Syllables. Comme en loved, ordered; parcel, model; maker, summer; graces, faces; Closet, Trumpet.

L'e mêmes est souvent retranché, & converti en Apostrophe, dans plusieurs de ces Preterits & Participes qui finissent en ed; comme lov'd, order'd.

Il est vrai que l'e est ouvert, & qu'il se prononce ai, dans ces Verbes finissant en er; savoir to deter, aver, confer, defer, refer, & prefer, que quelques uns écrivent avec deux r.

3. L'e est féminin à la fin des Mots qui finissent en les, ou en nels; Exemple, graceless, righteousness. Et dans ces trois Monosyllables, her, red, yet.

En fin, l'e est comme muet dans certains Mots finissant en en. Exemple beaten, fimiten, often, even, open, strengthen, weaken, & plusieurs autres de cette Nature.

Il en faut excepter ceux qui finissent en men; comme Amen, Hymen.

L'e est aussi muet dans onely, car il se prononce onny.

Pour ce qui est de l'e Ouvert, qui a le Son de notre Diphthongue ai, l'Anglois est assez conforme à notre Langue; si vous en exceptez une Partie de ce que je vien d'avancer, à l'égard de l'e masculin & du féminin.

Il faut donc donner à l'e le Son de la Diphthongue ai, dans une infinité de Mots; comme Servant, Perwig, felt, smell, &c.

Outre ces trois différentes Prononciations de l'e, il y en a une quatrième. C'est celle qui donne à l'e le Son de l'i. Comme en ces Mots, be, he, she, me, we, qui s'écrivent autrefois avec deux e.

Ajoutez y yes, besom, evil, & le premier e de ces Mots, eve, even, evening, here.

Il sonne encore comme un i à la fin de ces Adjectifs qui finissent en eous; comme righteous, courteous, gourageous, piteous.

Au commencement des Mots composés d'eim ou en, l'e prend aussi le Son de notre i. Exemple Employment, Inquiry; qui s'écrivent indifféremment avec un e, ou avec un i.

Teñ } Tinn.
Linnen } Linnim.
Penny } Penny.
Hence } Himnce.
Then } Denn.
Thence } Devince.
When } Hoim.
Whence } Hoimnce.

Au reste, l'e n'a jamais le Son de l'a comme en François, devant m & n.

Mais il faut remarquer, que l'Anglois a de certains Mots, où l'e étant mis après l'r se prononce néanmoins devant. Tels sont here, fire, hundred, Shire, Acre, Sepulchre, & quelques autres.

E A

Cette Diphthongue en Anglois prend généralement la Prononciation de l'e masculin; de sorte que l'a ne sert proprement qu'à rendre longue la Prononciation de l'e. Exemple meat, clean, weary, to bear, speak, appease, conceal.

Il est vrai, qu'il y a plusieurs Mots, où l'a est conté pour rien. Comme en ces Mots, beard, bread, break-fast, breath le Substantif, dealt, dearth, death, Earl, early, to earn, earnest, earth, feather, head, health, heard, hearken, hearth, heaven, heavy, leap, learn, leather, leaven, leaver, meadow, pageant, peasant, pillow-bear, pot-sheard, read le Preterit & Participe, ready, realm, to rehearse, scarce, search, stead, stealth, threaten, treachery, tread, wealth, weather, & tous leurs Derivatifs.

Il y en a d'autres, où la Prononciation de cette Diphthongue approche fort de celle d'ie en François. Comme besimear, blear-eyed, clear, dear, gear, hear, near, shears, spear.

L'e est tout à fait muet en moveable, changeable, & autres semblables.

Bear un Ours, & pear une poire, se prononcent bair, pair.

La Triphthongue eau a le Son d'un u long dans beauty, & ses Derivées.

Eclipse, Eclipse.

An Eclipse of the Sun, or Moon, une Eclipse du Soleil, ou de la Lune.

An Eclipse of the Moon never happens but at her Full; nor then neither, except when she is in such a point as the Interposition of the Earth deprives her of the Sun-beams, from whence she takes her Light.

An Eclipse of the Sun is not so usual, and happens only at the Change of the Moon; as, when the Moon being between the Sun and us doth, with her dark Body, hide part of his Light from us.

Which was the Cause that Dionysius Areopagita, seeing the Sun so admirably eclipsed at our Saviour's Passion, when the Moon was not in any nearness to hinder his Light, cried out in amazement, Au Deus Natura patitur, aut Machina Mundi dissolveretur, that is to say, either the God of Nature suffers, or else the Frame of the World will be destroyed.

This Word is also used, in both Languages, in a figurative Sense.

As, during the unhappy Eclipse of this Monarchy, durant la malheureuse Eclipse de cette Monarchie.

to Eclipse, faire eclipser.

Eclipsed, eclipse.

All those fine Qualifications are eclipsed, or come to nothing, toutes ces belles Qualitez se sont eclipsées.

Or thus. The Sun will be eclipsed, le Soleil s'eclipsera, il y aura Eclipse de Soleil.

The Moon causes the Sun to be eclipsed, la Lune fait eclipser le Soleil.

Ecliptick, ecliptique.

As, the ecliptick Line, or the Ecliptick alone, la Ligne ecliptique.

The Ecliptick is an imagined Line, running through the midst of the Twelve Signs of the Zodiack, in which the Sun always keeps his Course. Called Ecliptick, because the Eclipses happen, when the Moon is either in Conjunction or Opposition under this Line.

Eclogue, a Pastoral Poem, une Eglogue, Poème qui représente un Sujet champêtre.

As, the Elysian Fields, les Champs Elysées.

This is the Campus Elysus of the ancient Heathens, a Paradise into which they believed the Souls of the Just went, after their Departure hence. Of which Paradise Virgil makes this Description,

—Devenere Locos letos, & amana Vireta

Fortunatorum Nemorum, Sedesque beatæ.

E M

Em, for them, les, eux, elles.
As, I love 'em, je les aime.
I am above 'em, je suis au dessus d'eux, ou au dessus d'elles.

Emaciation, or a growing lean, amaigrissement, diminution d'embonpoint.
to Emaciate, or make lean, amaigrir, rendre maigre.

Emaciated, or become lean, amaigri, devenu maigre.

Emanation, or flowing out, emanation.
As, these are Emanations of the Royal Justice, ce sont des Emanations de la Justice Royale.

to Emancipate, or set free, emanciper, mettre hors de Tutelle.

Emancipated, or set free, emancipé, hors de Tutelle.

Emancipation, or setting free, Emancipation, Acte par lequel on emancipe un jeune Garçon ou une jeune Fille.

It is observable, that, by the Roman Law, every Son was in such Subjection to his Father, that, before he could be released of it, and made free, he should, by an imaginary Sale, be sold three times by his natural Father to another Man, who was therefore called by the Lawyers Pater Fiduciarius, a Father in Trust. He was as often bought again by the natural Father; and then, being manumitted, he became free. This Imaginary Sale was called Mancipatio; the Children, thus alienated from the Father, were termed Emancipati; and this Form of setting free, Emancipatio.

to Emasculate, or geld, châtrer, ôter (ou couper) les testicules.

Emasculated, or gelded, châtré.

Embers, hot Embers, Cendres chaudes.

The Ember-Weeks, les quatre Temps.
These Ember-Weeks, called the Quatuor Tempora in the ancient Fathers, are of great antiquity in the Church. First instituted for quarterly Seasons of Devotion, proportioned to each Part of the Year, as the first Fruits of every Season; that the whole and each Division of it might be blessed by it. They are answerable to those four Times of solemn Fast mentioned among the Jews. And an admirable Use is assigned to them in the Church, in Imitation of the Apostles, Acts 13. 3.

They are called Ember-Daies, or Day's of Ashes, from the no less ancient than religious Custom of eating nothing on those Daies till Night, and then only a Cake baked under the Embers or Ashes, which they called Pannem Subcineritium, or Ember-bread.

These Ember-Daies are the Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday next after Quadragesima Sunday, Whitsunday, Holy-Rood Day in September, and S. Lucies Day in December.

Emblem, Embleme.

An Emblem is a sweet Moral Symbol, consisting of Picture and Words, by which some weighty Matter is declared, l'Embleme est une sorte de Symbole, qui par une ou plusieurs Figures soutenues de quelques Paroles represente avec esprit une Pensée morale.

As, Emblems of Love, des Emblemes d'Amour.

Every Night is an Emblem of Death, in both we rest from our Labours, chaque Nuit est un Embleme de la Mort, dans la Nuit du Jour & celle de la Mort nous nous reposons de tous nos Travaux.

to Emblem. As, much knowledge, not much Speech, emblem's a Wise Man, la Connaissance, & non le Babil, est le Caractere du Sage.

Emblematical, or Emblematick, emblematique, qui tient de l'Embleme.
This is emblematical, ceci est emblematique.

Emblements, a Law-Term, les Revenus d'une Terre qu'on a ensémencée.

Emblements be the Profits of Land which has been sowed. But the Word is sometimes taken more largely for any Profits that arise and grow naturally from the Ground, as Grass, Fruit, Hemp, Flax, &c.

If a Tenant for Life sow the Land, and die thereupon, the Executor of the Tenant for Life shall have the Emblements, and not he in Reversion. But, if the Tenant for Years sow the Lands; and, before he has reaped, the Term expires, there the Lessor (or He in Reversion) shall have the Emblements.

Envious, (from Envy) envieux, qui porte envie à quécun, marri du Bonheur d'autrui.
An envious Man, un Envieux. An envious Woman, une Envieuse.
Every envious Man is a mad Man, tout Homme qui est envieux est un Homme insensé.
An envious Man will starve himself to see another thrive, and needs no other Lent than his Neighbours Welfare, l'Envieux s'affame quand il void l'Embonpoint d'autrui, c'est son Carême quand il le void prospérer.

If an envious Man could but have his Will, there were no such Tyrant upon Earth; No Man should live a quiet Life, or die a natural Death, but himself, si l'Envieux avoit le Pouvoir en main, il n'y auroit point de plus grand Tyrant sur la Terre; il ne souffriroit que personne vecût en repos, ou mourût d'une mort naturelle, que lui.

An envious Man sees his Neighbour's House burning, and warms himself by the Fire, and is refreshed. There is no Estate, nor Person, that he hath not a Quarrel to. His Equals he hates, because they are his Equals; his Inferiours, because they are not his Equals; and his Superiours, because he is not their Equal. He is an Enemy to all Mens Peace, but most of all to his own; and, if he were put to it, 'tis like he should be puzzled to determine what he would be himself, and what he would have others be, l'Envieux void brûler avec plaisir la Maison de son Prochain, & ce Feu qui donne de l'horreur à tous les autres Spectateurs repand la Joie dans son Cœur. Il n'y a ni Bien, ni Personne, à qui ce Malheureux n'en veuille. Il n'aime point ses Egaux, parce qu'ils sont ses Egaux; ni ses Inferiours, parce qu'ils ne sont pas ses Egaux; ni ses Superiours, parce qu'ils sont au dessus de lui. Il est Enemi juré de la Paix du Genre humain, mais sur tout de sa propre Paix; & si on le laissoit faire, peut être seroit il encore bien embarrassé à déterminer & sa Fortune & celle des autres.

Envicully, par envie.

He did it envicully, il l'a fait par envie.

Ephod, a Garment used by the Jewish Priests, Ephod, sorte d'Habillement parmi les Prêtres Juifs.

The Jews had two kinds of Ephods, the one used by the High Priest only, and the other by the inferior Priests.

The first was made of gold and twisted Silk of purple, scarlet, and violet Colour, and fine Linnen, with imbrodered Work. It covered the Back and Breast. And on the Shoulders there were set two great Onyx-stones, wherein were ingraven the Names of the twelve Sons of Jacob, called the twelve Patriarchs; on the right Shoulder, the six eldest; and on the left, the six youngest. Which was, that the High Priest, going into the Sanctum Sanctorum to officiate, might, amongst other Things, be put in mind he was to pray to God for the Posterity of those Twelve Patriarchs.

The other, which was used by the inferior Priests, was of a white Linnen.

Epilogue, or Conclusion, Epilogue, Conclusion de quëque Livre, ou de quëque Ouvrage entier.

The Epilogues of Phædrus his Fables, les Epilogues des Fables de Phedre.

Epiphany, or Twelfth-day, Epiphanie, le Jour (ou la Fête) des Rois.

Epiphany is a Greek Word originally, which signifies an appearing of Light, or a Manifestation.

The Feast of Twelfth-day after Christmas is so called, in memory and honour of Christ's Manifestation (or Apparition) made to the Gentiles, by a miraculous Blazing-Star. By virtue whereof he drew and conducted the three Magi, commonly called the three Kings; who, upon sight of that Star, came out of the East into Judæa, to adore him in the Manger. Where they presented him, as on this Day, with Myrrh, Gold, and Frankincense; in testimony of his Regality, Humanity, and Divinity. The Vigil of this Feast was of old called Vigilia Luminum; and the Ancients, at this Feast, were wont to send Lights one to another.

Arthur, the British King, is said to have begun the Custom of Solemnizing the Twelve-Daies in Christmas, with such Feasts and Sports as yet are used by the Lords of Misrule, in some Noble and Gentlemen's Houses.

Episcopacy, Episcopat.

Epistolar, de Lettre, qui convient à des Lettres.

Epitaph, an Inscription set upon a Tomb, une Epitaphe.

An ingenious Epitaph, une Epitaphe ingénieuse.

Epithalamium, or Wedding Song, Epithalame, Poëme en faveur d'un Mariage.

This Word is a Compound of the Greek ἐπὶ near, and δωδαιχμ a Bed-chamber, but more properly a Bride-chamber. And thus a Wedding (or a Bridal) Song came to be called Epithalamium, because it was used to be sung at the Door of the Bed-Chamber, when the Bride bedded.

There are two kinds of Epithalamium's. The one used to be sung at Night, when the married Couple went to Bed; the other in the Morning to raise them up.

A fair Instance of a Nuptial Song you will find Ps. 45. wherein the Praise of the Church, and her spiritual Marriage and Union with Christ is set down.

Epitheme, Epitheme.

Epitheme is a liquid Medicine, apply'd to an Outward Part of the Body, thereby to cool and comfort the Inward (either Heart, Stomack, or Liver) that is under it, Epitheme est une sorte de Medicament liquide, que l'on applique à quëque Partie extérieure du Corps, afin de rafraichir & de recréer une Partie interne, le Cœur, l'Estomac, ou le Foie.

Epithet, une Epithete.

A fine Epithet, une belle Epithete.

An Epithet is a Word added to a Noun Substantive, to express some quality of it. As when we say a noble Person, or an unbridled Lust, here Noble and Unbridled are the Epithets, expressing the Qualities of the Person and Lust.

Florus has made an Epitome of the Roman History, Florus a fait un Epitome de l'Histoire Romaine.

to Epitomize, or abridge, abreger, raccourcir, faire un Abbrege.

He is resolv'd to epitomize it, il est resolu d'en faire un Abbrege.

Epitomized, or abridged, abregé, raccourci, dont on a fait un Abbrege.

Epitomizing, l'action d'abreger, de raccourcir, ou de reduire en Abbrege.

Epoch, Epoque.

Epochs are certain Distinctions of Time, and Periods, which the Chronologers make use of to compute Years, les Epouques sont de certaines Distinctions de Temps, ou de certains Points fixes & arrêtés, dont se servent les Chronologistes pour conter les Années.

The most remarkable Epochs are those of the Creation of the World, and of our Saviour's Birth, les plus remarquables de toutes les Epouques sont celles de la Creation du Monde, & de la Naissance de Jesus Christ.

The Jews had several Epochs amongst them. As I. From the Creation of the World, or the beginning of Time. II. From the Universal Deluge, which hapned Anno Mundi (or in the Year of the World) 1656. III. From the Confusion of Tongues, A. M. 1786. IV. From Abraham's Journey out of Chaldæa into Canaan, A. M. 2021. V. From their Deliverance out of Egypt, A. M. 2453. VI. From the first Year of Jubile, A. M. 2499. VII. From the Building of Solomon's Temple, A. M. 2932. And lastly, From the Captivity of Babylon, A. M. 3357.

Besides those Epochs, they had another common with other Nations; viz. the Epoch of the Victory of the Greeks, which took beginning from the first Victory which Seleucus had against Antigonus, Anno Mundi 3637. An Account much used by the Jews, Chaldeans, Syrians, and other Nations of the East.

Tis true the Chaldeans had also their own Epoch apart, reckoning their Time from the first Year of Nabonassar, the same as Salmonassar, mentioned in the Holy Writ, A. M. 3201.

As for the Grecians, they reckoned a long While by Olympiads, the first of which is placed in the Year of the World 3174. But, this Account perishing under the Constantinopolitans, they reckoned after by Indictions, being an Account devised by Justinian. Now every Indiction contained fifteen Years, the first beginning in the Year of our Lord 312. Which is still used amongst Chronologers.

The Romans reckoned first from the Foundation of their City, which was Anno Mundi 3213. And afterwards from the sixteenth Year of Augustus his Empire, A. M. 3939, which is properly the Roman Era. The Christians generally reckon from the Birth of Christ. But this they did not use till about the Year 500; following in the mean time the Account of the Empire.

The Greek and Moscovian Churches reckon from the Creation of the World.

Lastly, the Mahometans begin their Hegira (for so they call the Time of their Computation) from the Flight of their Prophet Mahomet from Mecca, when he was driven thence by the Philarchæ. Which happened July 16. Anno 617, or (as some will have it) 622.

Epod, a kind of Lyrick Verse, wherein the first is always longer than the second, une Epode.

As, Horace's Epods, les Epodes d'Horace.

Equipollent. See Equivalent.

Equiponderous, of equal Weight, de même Poids.

Equipped, (from the Verb to Equip) équipé.

Equipping, l'action d'équiper.

Equitable, or just, équitable, juste, raisonnable.

He is a very equitable Man, c'est un Hom-me fort équitable.

An equitable Action, une Action equitable.

Or thus. As, to pass an equitable Judge-ment upon a Thing, juger équitablement d'une Cbose.

Equitably, équitablement, avec équité.

To judge equitably, juger équitablement.

Equity, Équité.

To do Things according to Equity, faire les Cboies équitablement, ou avec équité.

Amongst Lawyers, there be two Sorts of Equity, and those of contrary effects. For the one doth abridge and take from the Letter of the Law, the other doth in-largen and add thereto.

The first is the Correction of the Law generally made in that Part wherein it fails. As, when an Act of Parliament is made, that whosoever does such a Thing shall be a Felon, and suffer Death; yet, if a mad Man, or an Infant that hath no Discretion, do the same, they shall not be Felons, nor suffer Death therefore.

The other Equity is an Extension of the Words of the Law to Cases unexpressed, yet having the same Reason. So that, when one Thing is enacted, all other Things are enacted that are of the like degree. As the Statute which ordains, that in an Action of Debt against Executors, he that doth appear by Distress shall answer, does extend by Equity to Administrators. For such of them as shall appear first by Dis-tress shall answer by equity of the said Act, quia sunt in equali Genere.

The Court of Equity, which is the Court of Chancery, la Cour de la Chancellerie.

Equivalence, or equal value, l'équivalent, l-equipollent.

Equivalent, of an equal worth, equivalent, equipollent, virtuel, qui vaut autant.

An equivalent Distinction, une Distinction virtuelle.

To give an Equivalent, donner à l'equipol-lent, cd. donner autant, ou à peu près au-tant.

Equivocal, doubtful, that has a double mean-ing, equivoque, ambigu, qui a un double Sens.

As, an equivocal Word, Mot equivoque, ou ambigu, Parole à double entente.

So the Word Arms, in English is Equi-vocal. For it equally signifies the Parts of our Bodies so called, the Weapons used to fight withall, and Tokens of Honour.

Equivocally, par equivokes.

to Equivocate, or use Equivokes, faire des Equivokes, parler à double entente, & equi-voquer.

Equivocation, or Equivoke, un Equivoke, ou double Sens.

To avoid Equivocations, éviter les Equivo-ques.

E R

 Escheat, Biens qui echent au Seigneur du Fief par Droit d'Aubaine.
 Escheat, in a Legal Sense, signifies 1. any Lands, or other Profits, that fall to a Lord within his Mannor by Way of Forfeiture, or the Death of his Tenant; dying without Heir general or special, or leaving his Heir within Age, and unmarried.
 2. Escheat is also used sometimes for the Place or Circuit within which the King, or other Lord, has Escheat of his Tenants.
 3. Escheat is used for a Writ which lieth, where the Tenant, having Estate in Fee simple in any Lands or Tenements, holden of a superiour Lord, dieth seized without Heir general or special. For in this Case the Lord brings this Writ against him that that passeth the Lands after the Death of his Tenant, and shall thereby recover the same in lieu of his Services.

 Esquire, Ecuyer, Titre de Noblesse, &c. c'est proprement celui qui a Droit de porter un Ecu armoiré.
 Esquire was originally one that attended a Knight in Time of War, and carried his Shield. But this Addition hath not of long time had any relation to that Office. Now it signifieth a Gentleman, or one that beareth Arms, as a Testimony of his Nobility or Gentry; and is a meer Title of Dignity, next to and below a Knight. They who by Right claim this Title now are all the Younger Sons of Noblemen, the four Esquires of the King's Body, the eldest Sons of all Baronets, Knights of the Bath, and Batchelours. Those that serve the King in any worshipfull Calling have also a Right to this Title, as a Justice of Peace while he is in Commission, and the Utter-Baristers. To which add the chief of some ancient Families, that are Esquires by Prescription. Lastly, there are Esquires created by the King, with a Collar of SS's of silver.

Executor, he that is appointed to execute ones Will, Exécuteur Testamentaire, Exécuteur du Testament, Celui qui accomplit les dernières Volontés de la Personne qui a fait un Testament.

Executor is he that is appointed by any Man, in his last Will and Testament, to have the disposing of all his Substance, according to the Contents of the said Will. This Executor is either particular, or Universal. Particular, as if this or that Thing only be committed to his Charge; Universal, if all. And this is in the place of him whom the Civilians call Heredem designatum, or Testamentarium. The Law accounts him one Person with the Party whose Executor he is, as having all the Advantage of Action against all Men that he had, so likewise being subject to every Mans Action as himself was. This Executor had his beginning in the Civil Law, by the Constitutions of the Emperours; who first permitted those that thought good by their Wills to bestow any Thing upon good and charitable Uses, to appoint whom they pleased to see the same performed. And, if they appointed none, then they ordained, that the Bishop of the Place should have Authority of course to effect it.

Fealty, an Oath taken at the Admittance of every Tenant to be true to the Lord of whom he holdeth his Land, le Serment de fidelité que le Vassal prête à son Seigneur.

There be two Sorts of Fealty, the one general, and the other special. The first is to be performed by every Subject to his Prince. The other is only required of such as, in respect of their Fee, are tied by this Oath to their Landlords.

This Fealty special is performed, either by Freeman, or Villains. When a Freeman doth Fealty to his Lord, he holds his right Hand upon a Book, and says thus. Hear you, My Lord — That I — shall be to You faithfull and true, and shall ow my Fealty to You, for the Land that I hold of You, and truly shall do you the Customs and Services that I ought to do to You, at the Terms assigned. So help me God. And then he kisses the Book, but does not kneel.

When a Villain doth Fealty to his Lord, he holds his right Hand over the Book, and faith thus, kneeling. Hear You, my Lord — That I — from this Day forth unto you shall be true and faithfull, and shall ow you Fealty for the Land which I hold of you in Villenage, and shall be justified by You, both in Body and Goods. So help me God.

Fief, Heritage qu'on tient à foi & à hommage; Seigneurie, ou Terre Seigneuriale.

To pay the Fees, payer les Droits.

To give a Doctor, or Lawyer, his Fee, payer le Medecin, ou l'Avocat.

Lawyers and Physicians get greater Fees in England than any Where else, les Avocats & les Medecins gagnent plus en Angleterre qu'en tout autre Pais.

& A Fee, in the general Sense of the Law, signifies all those Lands which we hold by perpetual Right, but with an Acknowledgement of Superiority to a higher Lord. For, though many have Land by Descent from their Ancestors, and others have purchased Land with Money; yet is the Land of such a nature in England, that (except the Crown-Lands; being in the King's own hands) it cannot come to any, either by Descent or Purchase, but with the Burden that was laid upon him who first of all received it, as a Benefit from his Lord to him, and to all such to whom it might descend, or any way be conveyed from him. So that, in truth, no Man hath directum Dominium, the very Property (or Demain) in any Land, but only the Prince, in the right of his Crown. For, though he that hath Fee hath jus perpetuum & utile Dominium; yet he owes a Duty for it, and consequently it is not simply his own. And accordingly all that write de Feudis hold, that Feudatarius hath not an entire Property in his Fee.

Now there is a Fee-simple, and a Fee-tail, that being otherwise called Fee absolute, and this Fee conditional. Fee-simple is that of which we are seized in these general Words, To Us and our Heirs for ever. Which Words, our Heirs, make the Estate of Inheritance. For, if Land be given to a Man for ever, yet he hath but an Estate for Life. And Fee-tail is that whereof we are seized to Us and our Heirs, with Limitation, that is, the Heirs of our Body, &c.

There is also a Fee-farm, which signifieth in a Legal Sense Land held of another in Fee, that is, in perpetuity to Himself and his Heir, paying him a Yearly Rent, to half or a third Part of the Value of the Land, more or less. And the Nature of it is thus, that if the Rent be behind and unpaid for the space of two Years, then the Feoffer, or his Heirs, have Action to recover the Lands, as their Demesnes.

to Fee, payer; corrompre (gagner) par Présens, ou à force d'argent.

As, to fee a Physician, or a Lawyer, payer un Medecin, ou un Avocat.

Forest, a great or vast Wood, Forêt, Lieu vaste & rempli de grands Bois.

A fine Forest, une belle Forêt. A Forest of tall Trees, Forêt de haute futaie.

A Forest is a certain Territory of Woody Grounds, and fruitfull Pastures, privileged for wild Beasts, and Fowls of Forest, Chase, and Warren, to rest and abide in the safe Protection of the King, for his Princely Delight and Pleasure. Which Territory of Ground so privileged is meered and bounded with unremovable Marks, Meers, and Boundaries, either Known by matter of Record, or else by Prescription; and also replenished with wild Beasts of Venerly or Chase, and with great Coverts of Vert, for the succour of the said wild Beasts to have their Abode in. For the Preservation and Continuance of which said Place, together with the Vert and Venison, there are certain particular Laws, Priviledges, and Officers belonging only to the same.

The Manner of making Forests is this. The King sends out his Commission, under the Great Seal of England, directed to certain discreet Persons, for the View, Perambulation, Meering, and Bounding of the Place he has fixt upon for a Forest. Which being returned into the Chancery, Proclamation is made throughout all the Shire where the Ground lieth, that none shall hunt or chase any manner of wild Beasts in that Precinct, without the King's special Licence. After which, he appoints Ordinances, Laws, and Officers fit for the Preservation of the Vert and Venison. And so it becomes a Forest, by matter of Record.

The Properties of a Forest are especially these. First, a Forest, as it is truly and strictly taken, cannot be in the hands of any but the King; because none has Power to grant Commission to be a Justice in Eyre for the Forest but the King. The second Property be the Courts; As the Justice-Seat every three Years, the Swainmote thrice every Year, and the Attachment once every forty Daies. The third Property are the Officers belonging to it, for the Preservation of the Vert and Venison; As the Justices of the Forest, the Warden or Keeper, Verderers, Foresters, Agiftors, Regarders, Bayliffs, Beadles, and such like. But the chief Property of a Forest is the Swainmote, which is no less incident to it than a Court of Pie-powders to a Fair.

Frangible, that may be broken, qui se peut rompre, ou casser.

Frank. This Word is much used in the Law of England; as in Frank-almain, Frank-bank, Frank-chafe, Frank-fee, Frank-ferm, Frank-fold, Frank-Law, Frank-Marriage, Frank-pledge, Frank-Tenement.

Frank-Almain signifies a Tenure or Title of Lands or Tenements bestowed upon God, that is, given to such People as bestow themselves in the Service of God, for pure and perpetual Alms. Whence the Feoffers or Givers cannot demand any terrestrial Service, so long as the Lands &c. remain in the hands of the Feoffees.

Frank-bank, or free Bench, is an Estate in Copy-hold Lands that the Wife, being espoused a Virgin, hath for her Dower, after her Husbands Decease. In some Places (as East and West Enborn in Berkshire, in the Mannor of Torre in Devonshire, and some other Parts of the West) the Custom is, that the Widow shall have her Frank-bank in all her deceased Husband's Copy-hold Lands, dum sola & casta fuerit, whilst she continues single and chaste; but, if she commit Incontinency, she forfeits her Estate. Yet, if she will come into the Court, riding backward on a black Ram, with his Tail in her hand, and say the Words following; the Steward is bound, by the Custom, to readmit her to her Free-bench. The Words are these,

Here I am,
 Riding upon a black Ram,
 Like a Whore as I am;
 And, for my Crinum Cruncum,
 Have lost my Binkum Bancum;
 And, for my Tailles Game,
 Have done this Worldly shame.
 Therefore, I pray you, Mr. Steward,
 Let me have my Land again.

Frank-Chafe, Is a Liberty of free Chafe, whereby all Men having Ground within that Compas are prohibited to cut down, &c. without the View of the Forester, though it be in his own Demesnes.

Frank-Fee. According to some Lawyers, the Lands which were in the hands of King Edward the Confessor at the making of Doomday Book is ancient Demesne, and all the rest of the Realm is called Frank-fee. So that, by this Rule, all the Land in the Realm is either ancient Demesne, or Frank-fee.

Frank-Ferm, Is Land or Tenement, wherein the nature of Fee is changed by Feoffment out of Knights Service for several Yearly Services; and whence neither Homage, Wardship, Marriage, nor Relief may be demanded, nor any other Service not contained in the Feoffment.

Frank-fold, Is, where the Lord hath benefit of folding his Tenants Sheep within his Mannor, for the mauling of his Land.

Frank-Law. You may guess what it is by the Contrary. For he that for an Offence (as Conspiracy, &c.) loseth his Frank-Law is said to fall into these Mischiefs. First, that he may never be Impannelled upon any Jury or Assize, or otherwise used in testifying any Truth.

Next, if he have any Thing to do in the King's Court, he must not approach thither in person, but appoint his Attorney. Thirdly, his Lands, Goods, and Chattels must be seized into the King's hands; and his Lands must be estreated, his Trees rooted up, and his Body committed to Prison.

Frank-Marriage, Is a Tenure in Tail special. For, when a Father marries his Son, and gives him Land in Frank Marriage, the Meaning is, that the said Son and his Wife shall have the Land to them and the Heirs of their Bodies, and shall do no Fealty to the Donor till the fourth Degree.

Frank-Pledge (in the Saxons Time called Friborg, Fridburgh, or Frithburgh,) signifies a Pledge (or Surety) for Free-men. For the ancient Custom of Free-men of England, for the Preservation of the public Peace was, that every free-born Man (except Religious persons, Clerks, Knights, and their eldest Sons) should at 14 Years of Age, find surety for his Truth towards the King and his Subjects, or else be kept in Prison. Whereupon a certain Number of Neighbours became customably bound one for another, to see each Man of their Pledge forth-coming at all times, or to answer the Transgression committed by any broken away. So that, upon any Offence, it was forthwith inquired in what Pledge he was, and then they of that Pledge either brought him forthwith in 31 Daies to his Answer, or satisfied for his Offence. This was called Frank-pledge; and the Circuit thereof, thereof, Decemna, because it commonly consisted of ten Households. And this Custom was so strictly kept, that the Sheriffs at every County Court did from time to time take the Oaths of young ones, as they attained to the Age of 14 Years. Whereupon this Branch of the Sheriffs Authority was stiled View of Frank-pledge, and in the Law-Latine Viscus franci Plegii.

Friend, Ami, Amic.

He is my intimate Friend, c'est mon intime Ami, nous sommes dans une étroite Société.

He is an old Friend of mine, c'est un de mes vieux Amis.

The best Friend I have, le meilleur Ami que j'ai.

To be destitute of Friends, être depourvu d'Amis.

He is a Friend to Scholars, il est Ami des Savans.

She is a good Friend of mine, c'est ma bonne Amie.

Some affect not so much to have true Friends as to have many; they whisper to that Friend what they hear from this, and again to this what from that; and glory to have it known how much they are trusted, whereas they were therefore trusted, that it might not be known, il se trouve des gens qui aiment mieux avoir

quantité d'Amis qu'un petit nombre de véritables Amis; qui se plaisent à soufler à l'un ce qu'ils apprennent de l'autre; & qui se vantent d'avoir plusieurs Confidens, lors que ceux ci n'ont de confiance en eux parce que qu'ils les croient secrets.

I had rather have one mean Friend that I may call my own, than the most potent, where I must share with others, je prefere un Ami particulier de moyenne condition à un puissant Ami, dont l'Amitié se partage entre plusieurs.

My Friend is another my self, l'Ami que j'ai est un autre Moi même.

One Friend is the Looking-glass of the other, where face answers to face; when the one smiles the other smiles, when the one is sad the other is troubled, l'Ami est le Miroir de son Ami, qui le represente tel qu'il est; s'il a un Visage riant, l'autre l'a tout de même; s'il est mélancolique, l'autre est aussi mélancolique.

There is a Friend for Gain, that has no love but for him he lives by, who loves Diana because he lives by her, il y a de certains Amis interessez, qui n'ont d'amitié que pour ceux qui les font subsister, & qui n'aiment Diane que dans la vue des Avantages qu'ils y trouvent.

Proverbs.

Many Kinned, few Friends, tel a bien des Parens, qui n'a que peu d'Amis; cd. que les Parens ne sont pas les meilleurs Amis.

All are not Friends that carry it fair with us, tel nous fait beau semblant qui n'est pas nôtre Ami.

With all thy Secrets trust neither thy Wife, nor thy Friend, garde toi bien de confier tous tes Secrets soit à ta Femme soit à ton Ami.

A Friend is not so soon gotten as lost, il n'est pas si aisé de se faire un Ami, qu'il est aisé de le perdre.

In time of Prosperity our Friends are always about us, but in time of Adversity they presently leave us in the lurch, est on dans la Prosperité? on ne manque point d'Amis; tombe-t-on dans l'Adversité? les meilleurs Amis disparaissent. C'est ce qu'exprime elegamment un Poète Latin en ces Mots,

Dum Fortuna manet, Vultum servatis Amici;

Cum cecidit, turpi vertitis Ora fuge.

Prove thy Friend, ere thou have need, éprouve ton Ami, avant que d'en avoir besoin.

A Friend is never known, till one have need, on ne conoit l'Ami qu'au besoin.

Wherever you see your Friend, trust your self, quelque Ami que tu aies, fie toi plutôt à toi même qu'à lui.

Friends may meet, but Mountains never greet, deux Hommes se rencontrent bien, mais non pas deux Montagnes.

G.

☞ G Devant a, o, & u, se prononce en Anglois comme en François; comme ga, go, gu.

Mais, devant e & i, il a un Son particulier, & qui semble être composé des Sons du d & du g. Il y a même des Mots Anglois qui s'écrivent indifféremment avec un g, ou avec dg, sans qu'il y ait aucun Changement dans la Prononciation; Exemple, College ou Colledge, Knowledge ou Knowledge.

C'est cette Prononciation qu'il faut donner ordinairement au g devant e & i. Laquelle nous paroît véritablement un peu rude, jusqu'à ce que la Langue s'y soit un peu formée, à la manière des Anglois, qui le prononcent sans choquer l'Oreille.

Cependant il y a des Mots, où le g étant suivi de la Voyelle e ou de la Voyelle i, retient sa première Prononciation, cd. se prononce comme gu en François.

Tels sont 1. tous les Noms & Participes qui dérivent des Verbes dont l'Infinitif se termine en g. Exemple Singer & Singing qui dérivent du Verbe to Sing; hanged, hanger, & hanging, du Verbe to hang.

2. Les Comparatifs & Superlatifs des Adjectifs finissant en g; comme de big, bigger, biggest; de strong, stronger, strongest.

3. Les Mots suivants, geer, Geese, geld, gelding, gelt, geers, get, to beget, to forget, gewgaws, anger, dagger, hugger mugger, hunger, monger, Tiger, finger, gibberish, gibbous, giddy, gig, giggle, gild, gills, gird, girl, gittern, gizard, give, forgive, Druggist, & leurs Dérivatifs.

En fin, le g retient sa première Prononciation, là où il finit la Syllabe; comme en leg.

Il en faut excepter les Mots qui finissent indifféremment par dg, ou dge. Comme badg ou badge, bridg ou bridge; qu'il faut sonner bedge, bridge.

G, devant n est muet; comme en ces Mots, Sovereign, foreign, Reign, feign, & daign.

A peine se fait il entendre à la fin des Participes & des Substantifs finissant en ing. Exemple, loving, understanding, shilling; ni dans les Mots qui en dérivent, comme loving-nels.

Pour ce qui est du gh, nous en parlerons sous le Titre de Gh.

Gardian, or Warden of the Cinque-Ports, Gouverneur des Cinque-Ports.

So is called the principal Magistrate that hath Jurisdiction of those Havens in the East-part of England, which are commonly called the Cinque Ports, that is, the five Ports or Havens; and who hath there all that Jurisdiction which the Lord High Admiral of England hath in Places not exempt. The Reason why one Magistrate was assigned to so few Havens was, because, in respect of their Situation, they anciently required a more vigilant Care than other Havens; being nearer and more obvious to Enemies, by the Narrowness of the Sea in those Parts.

Cambden, in his Brit. page 238, saies, that the Romans, after they had settled themselves and their Empire here in England, appointed a Magistrate or Govern-

our over those Eastern Parts, whom they called Comitem Littoris Saxonici per Britanniam, having another that bore the same Title on the opposite Part of the Sea; whose Office was to fortify and furnish the Sea-Coasts with Munition, against the Incursions and Robberies of the Barbarians. And his Opinion is, that the Warden of the Cinque Ports was since erected here, in Imitation of that Roman Policy.

To tie, or untie a Garter, attacher, ou detacher une Jarretiere.

The Noble Order of the Garter, l'Ordre Illustre de la Jarretiere.

A Knight of the Garter, Chevalier de la Jarretiere.

This Order, inferiour to none in the World, and such as several Emperours and Kings of other Nations have desired and thankfully accepted, was instituted, if we believe Polydore Virgil, upon a slight Occasion. Edward III (says he) King of England, having obtained many great Victories, the

Kings of France and Scotland being both Prisoners in the Tower of London at one time, King Henry of Castille the Bastard expulsed, and Don Pedro restored, did first erect this Order Anno 1350, upon this Occasion. He dancing with the Queen, and other Ladies of the Court, took up a Garter, that hapned to fall from one of them. Whereat some of the Lords smiling, the King said, That ere it were long he would make that Garter to be of high Reputation. And accordingly He shortly after instituted this Order of the Garter. For which pretended slight Institution of this Order, the said Author has no better Grounds; by his own Confession, than the Vulgar Opinion. But Camden, Ferne, and especially Elias Ashmole Esquire, who has given to the World an accurate Piece of Work concerning this Matter, fetch the Original of it from the many signal Victories of King

Edward, and from one particularly, wherein 'tis said the King's Garter was used for a Token. This Order consists of Twenty six Martial and Heroical Nobles, whereof the King of England is the Sovereign. The Garter which they wear is blue, with Gold and

Precious Stones, and having these Words fixt on it, HONI SOIT QUI MAL Y PENSE, which is commonly thus interpreted, Evil to him that evil thinketh. This Garter every Companion of the Order is bound daily to wear. Garter, King at Arms, le premier Heraut d'Armes.

The chief of the three Kings at Arms, was instituted and created by King Henry V. The other two are called Clarencieux, and Norroy.

Garth, a North-Country Word, une Cour, ou un Derriere de Maison.

Garth signifies a little Backside, or Close, in the North of England. Also, a Dam, or Wear, in a River, for the catching of Fish, vulgarly called a Fish-garth. The Word seems to be an ancient British Word, for Gardd in that Language signifies a Garden.

In the Inns of Court there are four of these in the Year, that is one in every Term, viz. Ascension-Day in Easter-Term, Midsummer-Day in Trinity-Term, All-Saints-Day in Michaelmas-Term, and Candlemas-Day in Hilary-Term. These four are no Daies in Court, and on these Days double Commons are allowed; besides Musick on All-Saints, and Candlemas-Day, as the first and last of Christmas. The Word seems to be derived from the Latine Gaudium, Joy; and indeed they are Daies of Joy, as bringing good Cheer to the hungry Students. In Colleges they are most commonly called Gaudy, in Inns of Court Grand Daies, and at Court Col-ler Daies.

Gave. C'est un Preterit du Verbe to Give, donner.

Gavel, sorte de Tribut, ou d'Impôt.

The Word Gavel signifies Tribute, Toll, Custom, yearly Rent, Payment, or Revenue. Of which there were of old several kinds, as Gavel-corn, Gavel-malt, Oat-gavel, Gavel-fodder, &c.

A Gavel of Corn, une Javelle de Blé.

Gavelet, Defaut de Payement de Rente, &c. au Seigneur du Fief dans la Province de Kent.

Gavelet is a special and ancient kind of Cessavit used in Kent, where the Custom of Gavel-kind continueth; Whereby the Tenant shall forfeit his Lands and Tenements to the Lord of whom he holdeth, if he withdraw from him his due Rent and Service. Which is done after this manner.

If any Tenant in Gavelkind withhold his Rents and Services, let the Lord seek by Award of his Court, from three Weeks to three Weeks, to find some Distress upon the Tenement until the fourth Court, always with Witnesses. And, if within that Time he can find no Distress on that Tenement, whereby he may have Justice of his Tenant; then, at the fourth Court, let it be Awarded, that he take that Tenement into his hand in name of a Distress, as if it were an Ox or a Cow, and let him keep it a Year and a Day in his hand without manuring. In which time, if the Tenant come, and pay his Arrerages, and make reasonable amends, let him re-injoy it. But, if he come not in that time, then let the Lord go to the next County-Court, with his Witnesses of his own Court, and pronounce there his Process. And, by the Award of his Court (after the County-Court holden) he shall enter, and manure those Lands and Tenements as his own.

Gavelkind, an equal Division amongst Children. C'est une Loi, ou Coutume, établie dans quelques Endroits d'Angleterre (et principalement dans la Province de Kent) par laquelle les Biens du Pere sont, après sa Mort, également divisés entre ses Fils.

Gavel-kind is a Law, or Custom, whereby the Land of the Father is equally divided, at his Death, among all his Sons; or the Land of the Brother equally divided at his Death among all his Brethren, if he have no Issue of his own.

This Custom is still in force in divers Places of England; but especially in Kent, Urchenfield in Herefordshire, and elsewhere, though with some difference.

In Gavelkind, though the Father be hanged, the Son shall inherit; according to the old Saying,

The Father to the Bough,
The Son to the Plough.

Helpless, that cannot help himself, qui ne sait point aider ni autrui ni soi même, qui n'est d'aucun secours; perclus, qui ne se peut aider de ses Membres; destitué de tout Secours.

He is a poor helpless Man, that can do nothing for himself, c'est un pauvre Homme, qui n'est d'aucun secours, ni pour soi même ni pour ses Amis.

He has been long helpless, 'tis long since he has no use of his Limbs, il y a long tems qu'il est perclus de ses Membres, qu'il ne peut s'aider de ses Membres.

To be helpless, or left without help, être destitué de tout Secours.

Helter-skelter, or confusedly, confusément, ou sans aucun ordre.

Helve, un Manche.

As, the helve of an Ax, le manche d'une Hache.

To throw the Helve after the Hatchet, (Prov.) jeter le Manche après la Coignée.

to Helve, emmancher.

As, to helve an Ax, emmancher une Coignée.

Helved, emmanché.

Hem, ourlet, bord que l'on plie & qu'on coud proprement.

A broad, or narrow hem, un Ourlet large, ou un petit Ourlet.

Hem, (an Interj.) Hem, Interjection pour appeler.

to Hem, ourler, faire des Ourlets; appeler.

You must hem this, il vous faut ourler ceci.

If you hem never so loud, he will not hear you, appelez le si fort que vous voudrez, il ne vous entendra pas.

To hem, or to spit with a hem, cracher d'une grande force.

To hem in, enfermer, investir, environner.

As, to hem in the Enemy on every side, enfermer l'Enemi de toutes parts.

Hemicycle, or half-circle, un Hemicycle, ou Demi-Cercle.

Hemisphere, half the Compass of the visible Heavens, Hemisphere, ou moitié du Globe.

The upper and lower Hemisphere, l'Hemisphere supérieur & inférieur.

Hemistick, or half a Verse, un Hemistich, ou demi Vers.

Hemlock, a venomous Plant, Cigue, Plante venimeuse.

Hemlock

Hemlock is cold, la Cigue est froide.
Hemmed, (from the Verb to Hem) ourlé;
appelé.

Hemmed in on every Side, enfermé (in- vesti, environné) de toutes parts.

Hemming, l'action d'ourler, &c. as in the Verb to Hem.

Hemorrhagy, or loss of Blood at the Nose, Hémorrhagie, Perte de Sang par
le Nez.

Hemorrhoids, or Piles, Hémorrhoides.

The Hemorrhoids, corruptly called Em-roids, are a Disease in the Fundament, like Teats or Warts, by the swelling of the Vein, les Hémorrhoides sont des Tumeurs aux extrémités des Veines qui sont autour du Fondement, remplies de Sang melancolique.

Hemp, Chanvre.

To peel Hemp, viller le Chanvre.

Hemp-seed, Chenevi, Graine de Chan- vre.

Hemp-stalk, Tuyau de Chanvre. A piece of a hemp-stalk, Chenevotte, petite parcelle
de Tuyau de Chanvre.

A Hemp-Close, Cheneviere, Lieu où l'on
sème le Chanvre.

Hempen, de Chanvre.

Or thus. As, † a hempen Rogue, one that is fit for the Gallows, un Scelerat, qui merite la Corde.

Hen, Poule.

As, a fat Hen, une Poule grasse. A lean Hen, une Poule maigre.

A young, or an old Hen, une jeune, ou vieille Poule.

A Turkey-hen, Poule d'Inde. A Pea-hen, la
femelle du Paon.

A Moor-hen, Fouque, Poule d'Eau.

Hen-house, Poulailler, le Lieu où couchent les Poules. Hen-roost, l'ucboir.

Hen-bane, an Herb, Jusquiame, sorte d'Herbe.

Remarquez ici, que les Anglois se servent quelquefois de hen, avec le Nom des Oi-seaux, pour exprimer la femelle; comme a hen-sparrow, un moineau femelle.

Hence, from hence, d'ici; de là.

He went hence (he went from hence) but just now, il ne fait que de sortir
d'ici.

Ten Years hence, or ten Years from this time, dans dix Ans d'ici.

Hence you may gather what a Man he is, d'ici vous pouvez conclure quel Homme c'est.

Hence it came to pass, that, de là vient,
que.

Hence are those Tears, de là viennent ces Larmes.

Or thus. As, not many Daies hence, dans peu de Jours.

Henceforth, Henceforward, deformais, à l'a- venir.

Henceforward be more wise, soyez plus sage à l'avenir.

†Henchman, or Henfman, much the same as a Footman, un Valet de pied.

†Hent, for caught, attrapé.

to Hen-peck, maîtriser, maltraiter.

As, they say, she hen-pecks her Husband,
on dit, qu'elle maîtrise son Mari.

Hen-peckt, maîtrisé, maltraité.

Poor Man, he is sadly hen-peckt by his Wife, le pauvre Homme est cruellement maltraité par sa Femme.

† Le Mot est composé de Hen qui signifie Poule, & du Verbe to Peck qui veut dire picoter, ou faire sentir son bec. Ainsi Hen-peckt, dans le Sens propre, nous représente un Coc insulté par sa Poule; & dans le figuré, un malheureux Mari qui se laisse donter par sa Femme.

Hep, the fruit of the Hep-tree, Gratecul,
Fruit rouge de grand Eglantier.

Heps are binding, and good against the Gravel, les Grateculs resserrent, & sont bons
pour la Gravelle.

or Corners, un Heptagone.

Heptarchy, the former State of England,
when reduced to Seven petty Kingdoms, l'Heptarchie, ou l'Etat de l'Angleterre du Tems passé, lors qu'elle étoit divisée en sept petits Royaumes.

Her, la, lui, elle; son sa, ses.

Avant que d'aller plus loin, il faut remar-quer, que her est un Pronom Demonstratif, & un Pronom Possessif.

Entant que Demonstratif, ce n'est proprement qu'un Changement de she; & comme Possessif, c'est le féminin de his.

She se change en her, après un Verbe, & une Preposition. Après un Verbe, il signi-fie en François la, & lui; après une Preposition, elle.

Exemple, he vexes her, il la tourmente. He troubles her, il l'incommode.

He will give her a good Portion, il lui fera une Dote avantageuse. Dans cet Exemple il faut considérer, que her, se dit pour to her, & en François lui pour à elle.

I have been with her, j'ai été avec elle,
I am for her, je suis porté pour elle.

'Tis like her, or like her self. See Her self.

En François, au lieu de son, nous disons sa, devant un Nom féminin qui commence par une Consonne. En Anglois on dit her, non par rapport au Substantif qui le suit, mais au Pronom féminin qui le precede. Ainsi her se dit pour of her d'elle, comme his au masculin se dit pour of him de lui.

Exemple, she loves her Son, elle aime son Fils.

She has married her Daughter, elle a marié
sa Fille.

She is very kind both to her Sons and Daughters, elle aime tendrement ses Fils & ses Filles.

Quand self vient après her, on le rend en
François tantôt par le Mot d'elle, tantôt par celui de soi.

Comme, 'tis she her self, c'est elle même.

She killed her self, elle se tua soi même.

She did that for her self, elle fit cela pour soi même.

She must look to her self, il faut qu'elle
prenne garde à soi.

On rend aussi her self de cette maniere.

Exemple, she went away by her self, elle se retira toute seule.

She did it of her self, of her own accord,
elle fit cela de son propre mouvement.

She knows what's good for her self, elle sait ce qui lui est propre, elle sait bien s'ac-commoder.

She lives like her self, elle vit selon sa qualité.

'Tis like her self, c'est son humeur, c'est sa
maniere d'agir, elle ne se dement point.

Herald, an Officer at Arms, Heraut, Officier
de Prince.

† An Herald (quasi Herus altus, a high Master) is an Officer, imploy'd by the King in Martial Messages, such as to denounce War, to summon a Place, to proclaim Peace, &c. Heralds are also, as in France, the Judges and Examiners of Gentlemen's Arms; and one Part of their Office is, to marshal all the Solemnities at the King's Coronation.

There be divers of them in England, whereof three, being the chief, are called Kings at Arms. Now these are distinguished, amongst themselves, by the Names of Garter, Clarencieux, and Norroy. And of them Garter is the principal, instituted and created by King Henry the Fifth.
His particular Office is to attend Knights of the Garter at their Solemnities; and to marshal the Funerals of the Garter Nobility, as Princes, Dukes, Marquesses, Earls, Viscounts, and Barons.

The next is Clarencieux, ordained by Edward the Fourth. For he, attaining the Dukedom of Clarence, by the Death of his Brother George (whom He beheaded, for aspiring to the Crown) made the Herald, which properly belonged to the Duke of Clarence, a King at Arms, and called him Clarencieux. His proper Office is to marshal and dispose the Funerals of all the lesser Nobility, as Knights and Esquires through the Realm, on the South-side of Trent.

The Third is Norroy, or North-roy.
Whose Office is the same on the Northside of Trent that Clarencieux hath on this Side, his Name signifying the Northern King, or King of the North Parts.

Besides These, there be six other properly called Heralds, according to their Original, as they were created to attend Dukes, &c. in Martial Expeditions. These are York, Lancaster, Somerset, Richmond, Chester, and Windsor.

There are four other called Marshals, or Pursuivants at Armes, reckoned after a sort in the Number of Heralds; viz.
Blue-mantle, Rouge-crois, Rouge-Dragon, and Port-cullis. Who commonly succeed in the place of Heralds, when they die, or be preferred.

Lastly, 'tis to be observed, that those Officers we call now Heralds were termed Feciales by the Romans. But these Feciales were Priests. Nam Numa Pompilius divini Cultus Institutionem in octo Partes divisit, & ita etiam Sacerdotum octo Ordines constituit, &c. Septimam Partem sacre Constitutionis Collegio eorum adjecit, qui Feciales vocantur. Brant autem ex optimis Domibus Viri electi, &c. quorum partes in eo versabantur, ut Fides publica inter Populos præf-sent; neque justum aliquod Bellum fore censebatur, nisi id per Feciales esset indictum.

Heraldry, or the Art of Blazoning, Blason, la Science des Armoiries, la Science Heral-dique.

A Treatise of Heraldry, un Traité du Blason.

Heraldship, l'Office (ou la Charge) d'un Heraut.

Or thus, in a burlesk Sense. If it please your Heraldship, s'il plaît à Monsieur le Heraut.

Herb-Woman, Herbier, Vendeuse d'Her-
bes.

Herb-Porridge, de la Soupe aux Her-
bes.

Herbage, or Pasture, Herbage, ou Pâ- ture.

† Herbage signifies the Fruit of the Earth, produced by Nature for the Mouth of the Cattel. But it is most commonly used for a Liberty that a Man hath to feed his Cattel in another Mans Ground;
as in the Forest, &c.

Herbal, a Book treating of Herbs, Traité des Herbes.

Herculean, d'Hercule.

As, an Herculean Labour, that is a Work of great Difficulty, or impossible to be performed, un des Travaux d'Hercule, une Difficulté presque insurmontable.

This is a Proverb, which took beginning from Hercules his Twelve Labours.

Herd, or great Company, Troupeau.

As, a Herd of Cattel, un Troupeau de Betail.
 Instead of Herd, the Huntsmen have particular Appellations. As, a Sound (or Sounder) of Swine, a Trip of Goats, a Rout of Wolves, a Riches of Martens, a Kinder of Cats, a Stud (or Stode) of Mares, a Pace of Affes, a Rag (or Rake) of Colts, a Skulk of Foxes, a Slouth of Bears. Herd, at the end of a Word, signifies the same as Keeper.
 As, a Cow-herd, un Bourvier. A Swine-herd, un Porcher. A Shepherd (q. d. Sheep-herd) un Berger.
 to Herd together, aller en troupe.
 As, Wolves herd together, les Loups vont en troupe.
 Herdsman, Celui qui garde le Betail.
 Here, ici, y, voici, ça.
 As, he is here, il est ici. I am very well here, je suis fort bien ici.
 I find my self well here, je m'y trouve bien.
 Here he comes, le voici qui vient. Here's a Letter for you, voici une Lettre pour vous.
 Here and there, ça & là.
 Or thus. As, here, or take it, prenez le.
 Here's to ye, à vous, je vous le porte. C'est l'Expression dont le menu Peuple se sert ordinairement, quand ils boivent les uns aux autres.
 His being here is uneasy to me, sa présence m'est une gêne.
 Hereabouts, par ici, ici autour.
 I left it hereabouts, je l'ai laissé par ici, ou ici autour.
 It must needs be hereabouts, il faut absolument qu'il soit par ici.
 Hereafter, deformais, à l'avenir.
 Think of it hereafter, songez y de formais.
 Do so no more hereafter, n'y retournez plus à l'avenir.
 Hereat, at this. As, he is offended hereat, il s'en choque.
 Hereby, par ce moyen, ainsi.
 Hereby you will shew your self an honest Man, par ce moyen (ainsi) vous ferez voir que vous êtes un bonnête Homme.
 Hereditaments, Heir.
 Hereditaments is a Law-Word that signifies all such Things Immovable, be they corporeal or incorporeal, as a Man may have to himself, and his Heirs, by Way of Inheritance; or which, not being otherwise bequeathed, do naturally and of course descend to him which is next Heir of blood, and fall not within the compass of an Executor or Administrator, as Chattels do.
 It is a Word of large Extent, and much used in Conveyances. For, by the Grant of Hereditaments, Isles, Mannors, Houses, and Lands of all Sorts, Charters, Rents, Services, Advowsons, Commons, and whatever may be Inherited, will pass.
 Hereditary, that comes by Inheritance, héréditaire, qui vient des Peres & Meres aux Enfants, ou autres proches Héritiers.

 Hereunto, à ceci.
 Hereunto I shall add, j'ajouterai à ceci.
 Hereupon, dans ces entrefaites, là dessus.
 Herewith, avec ceci.
 Heriot. This is a Law-Word, taken now for the best Chattel that the Tenant hath at the hour of Death, due to the Lord by Custom; be it Horse, Ox, or any such like. And this is it which the ancient Saxons called Heregate, from Here an Army, and Geat a Beast; Heregate, in their Time, signifying a Tribute given to the Lord, for his better Preparation towards War. Afterwards Heregate came to be turned into Heriot, and then it signified the same as Relief; till Use brought it into the Sense aforesaid.
 Heritage, (from Heir) Heritage.
 O Lord, save thy People, and blest thine Heritage, O Dieu, sauve ton Peuple, & beni ton Heritage.
 Hermaphrodite, that hath the natural Parts of both Sexes, Hermaphrodite, qui a les Parties de l'Homme & de la Femme.

Hid, or Hidden (from the Verb to Hide) caché, &c. according to the Verb.
To ly hid, être caché.

Hidage, an extraordinary Tax to be paid for every Hide of Land, Subside extraordinaire qu'on levait sur chaque Proportion de Terres qu'on nommoit Hide.

This was of old a frequent kind of Taxing, as well for Provision of Armour, as Payments of Money. But especially in the Reign of King Ethelred; who, when the Danes landed at Sandwich, taxed all his Land by Hides. So that every 120. Hides of Land found one Ship armed, and every eight Hides found one Jack and one Saddle, for the Defence of the Realm. And afterwards William the Conquerour took, of every Hide throughout England, six Shillings.

Hidden, (from the Verb to Hide) caché.

As, these Things have been long hidden, ces Choses ont été long tems cachées.

Hidden Mysteries, des Mysteres qui nous sont cachez, des Mysteres impenetrables.

Hiddenly. See Privately.

Hide, Peau, Cuir; environ quarante Arpens de Terre.

To dress a Hide, travailler le Cuir.

Or thus, in a burlesk Sense. As, † to warm ones hide for him, to give his hide a warming, barre quelqu'un comme il faut, † le roffer dos & ventre, le bien sangler.

A Hide of Land, c'est environ quarante Arpens de Terre, mesure de France.

† Tis such a Quantity of Land as might be ploughed with one Plough in a Year. But what Number of Acres it is precisely, I cannot tell; neither do Authors agree about it. Some will have it to contain a hundred Acres, every Acre in length forty Perches, and in breadth four, every Perch sixteen foot and a half; and that eight Hides, or 800. Acres, makes a Knights Fee. By others, it is 120. Acres; and Beda will have it to be as much as will maintain a Family. Others say, that a Fee, a Hide, or Plough-land, a Yard-land, or Oxgang of Land, contain no certain Number of Acres.

The Distribution of England by Hides of Land is very ancient, mention being made thereof in the Laws of King Ina. And Henry the first, to marry his Daughter to the Emperour, took of every Hide of Land three Shillings.

Hide-bound, roide, dont la Peau s'attache aux Côtes; attaché, intéressé, taquin, dur à la desferre.

The Hide-bound, a Sickness of Cattel, sorte de Maladie à quoi les Beufs sont sujets, quand leur Peau s'attache à leurs Côtes, en sorte qu'ils ne se peuvent remuer.

Hide-geld, as Hidage. Also, a Ransom, paid to save ones Skin, that it be not beaten.

to Hide, cacher, serrer si bien une Chose qu'on ne la puisse trouver qu'avec peine.

As, to hide a Thing under his Cloke, cacher une Chose sous son Manteau.

To hide himself somewhere, se cacher en quelque endroit, se tapir.

Hide nothing from thy Minister, Physician, nor Lawyer, (Prov.) ne cache rien à son Ministre, à son Medecin, ni à son Avocat. Et de fait, si on leur cache quelque Chose, on court risque de le faire au prejudice de son Ame, de son Corps, ou de ses Biens.

Hide, and seek, Cligne-musette, certain Jeu d'Enfant.

Hidebound. See Hide-bound under Hide.

† Hidell, a Word formerly used for a Sanctuary, or a Place of Protection, Asyle, Lieu de Refuge.

Hideous, or frightfull, hideux, terrible, affreux, horrible, epouvantable.

As, a hideous Noise, un Bruit horrible, un Bruit epouvantable.

Hotch-pot, Hotch-potch, or Hodge-podge, Mélange, plusieurs Choses mêlées ensemble.

This Word, among the Dutch, signifies Flesh cut into pieces, and foddren with Herbs or Roots, not unlike the Roman Farrago. In English it signifies literally a sort of Pudding mixed of divers Ingredients; and generally, any kind of odd Mixture. Amongst Lawyers, it is taken, by a Metaphor, for a Commixture (or putting together) of Lands of several Tenures, for the equal Division of them.

For example, a Man seized of thirty Acres of Land in Fee hath Issue two Daughters, and gives with one of his Daughters to a Man that marries her, ten Acres of the same Land in Frank-Marriage, and dies seized of the other twenty Acres. Now, if she that is thus married will have any part of the twenty Acres whereof her Father died seized, she must put her Lands given in Frank-marriage, in Hotch-pot, that is, she must refuse to take the sole Profits of the Lands given in Frank-marriage, and suffer the Land to be commixt, or mingled together with the other Land whereof her Father died seized. So that an equal Division may be made of the Whole between her and her Sister; and thus, for her ten Acres, she shall have fifteen. Otherwise her Sister will have the whole Twenty, of which her Father died seized.

There is also, in the Civil Law, Collatio Bonorum, answerable to this. Whereby, if a Child advanced by the Father do, after his Father's Decease, challenge a Child's Part with the rest, he must cast in all that formerly he had received, and then take out an equal Share with the others.

Huguenot, a Nick-Name which the Papists of France used to give the Protestants there, un Huguenot, un Protestant, un Religioneux.

† This Name the French Protestants (as several Authors write) got from a Gate of Tours, called the Gate of S. Hugo; at which the Protestants of Tours used at first to issue out to their Assemblies in the Fields. Others think, this Name was given unto them from a Night-walking Spirit, called S. Hugo; in regard they had their first Meetings for the most part in the Nights, as had the primitive Christians in the Time of their Persecutions.

Some, more improbably, and indeed ridiculously, derive the Name from the first Words of an Apology which they are fabled to have made to the King, the Words being (as they say) Huc Nos Venimus. And, as the Protestants did derive that Appellation from the Words Protestants and Protestamus, so often used by them in their Apology to Charles V; so from those Words Huc nos they fancy came the Name of Huguenots.

Huzza, acclamation, acclamation de Joie.

As, to drink the King's Health with a Huzza, boire la Santé du Roi avec des Acclamations.

Huzza-men, or Tories. C'est ainsi que le Parti opposé aux Interets de la Cour appeloit, dans ces derniers Tems, ceux qui se piquoient d'être fidèles à la Couronne, & qui ne vouloient point souffrir qu'on en usurpât les Droits. Le Sens que l'on donnoit à ces Noms étoit malin, & celui de Tory sur tout est un Nom d'Origine infame. Pour couper court, On vouloit dire par là des Gens de-termeux, des Debauchez, & des Etourdis; qui, pour se mettre bien dans l'Esprit de la Cour, paroissent être tout prêts à lui sacrifier la Liberté & la Religion du Peuple. Voilà de quelle maniere ce Parti là traitoit même les mieux intentionnez.

to Huzze. See to Huzz.

Hydra, Hydre, gros Serpent acatique.

Hydra was a monstrous Serpent in the Lernæan Lake, near Argos, in that Part of Greece called Peloponessus, now Morea. This Serpent is said to have had fifty Heads; and no sooner one Head was cut off, but presently two other grew up in the place. Hercules, as the Story saies, has fought, and slain this Monster.

The same is elegantly used, both in French and English, in a figurative Sense; as when we speak of a dangerous Party, which, when Men think it crushed, rises with greater force.

As, we shall see the Heads of that Hydra soon spring out again, on verra bien tôt renaitre les Têtes de cette Hydre.

I

LEs Anglois ont, comme nous, deux sortes d'i, l'un Voyelle, & l'autre Consonne, qui se forme par distinction avec une queue.

L'i Voyelle est de deux Sortes, l'un bref, & l'autre long.

Par l'i bref s'entend celui qu'ils prononcent comme nous, comme dans le Mot Visible. Au lieu que l'autre a un Son particulier, & qu'on ne sauroit mieux vous représenter par la plume que par ces deux Voyelles ai; comme dans ces Mots I, pride, crime.

Il est vrai que ce Son paroît d'abord un peu rude & grossier; mais les Anglois lui donnent un certain Adoucissement, dont les Etrangers se rendent bien tôt capables. Cet Adoucissement consiste, en partie, à ne faire qu'un Son d'ai, en sorte que ces deux Voyelles ne sont pas tout à fait distinctement prononcées.

C'est ainsi que l'i se prononce généralement lorsqu'il est suivi d'une Consonne & d'un e final; comme dans pride & crime.

Mais cette Regle a beaucoup d'Exceptions, qu'il faut apprendre par l'Usage.

On lui donne encore ce Son, i. lors qu'il n'est suivi que d'un e; comme en ces Mots a lie, a tie.

2. Devant ld, nd, & ght, à la fin du Mot. Ex. child, mild; blind, mind; fight, night.

3. En ces Mots, I, miser, idle, twilight, bible, title, private, climb, Christ; & ceux ci où l's est muette, savoir Isle, Island, Islet, Viscount, Viscountess.

Remarquez cependant, qu'encore qu'on dise Child & Christ, avec le Son d'un i long, neanmoins on le prononce bref (cd. de notre maniere) en Children, Christian, Christianly, Christianity, Christendom.

Dans les Monosyllabes qui finissent en in, l'i a un Son clair, tel que nous lui donnons dans nos Noms finissant en ine; comme fin, pin, kin, tin.

Il y a des Mots, où l'i se prononce à peu près comme un e ouvert, principalement quand il est suivi d'une r; comme Sir, fir, stir, Girl, firm, virtue, dirt, mirth, thirst, third, &c.

Au lieu que dans ces Mots il approche du Son de notre a; savoir Sirrah, Shirt, Bird, & autres semblables. Et d'un e féminin, dans hither, thither, qui se prononcent heder, deder.

A peine se fait il entendre dans carriage, marriage, Parliament, Venison, ordinary, evil, Devil, & devant le c dans le Mot de Medicine.

L'i Consonne a le Son du g devant e & i; comme en ces Mots, Jack, Jeff, Jilt, Joy, Judge. Voyez la Lettre G.

I, and J A.

Ich-dien, the Motto belonging to the Devise of the Princes of Wales, which signifies I serve, je sers.

† Some will have it come from the British Eick dyn, which signifies your Man, in that Language. The Figure of that Devise is three Ostrich feathers, which (saith Camden) Edward the black Prince won at the Battle of Cressly, from John King of Bohemia, whom he there slew. And this is that we commonly, but corruptly, call the Princes Arms. The Motto adjoynd to the Devise alludes to that of the Apostle, The Heir while he is a Child, differs nothing from a Servant.

Ich-nography, Ich-nographie.

Ich-nography is a Draught of a Building, or rather the Steppings of it, upon Paper, l'Ich-nographie est la Description du Plan geometral d'un Bâtimement tirée sur du Papier.

Ides, the Ides of a Month, amongst the ancient Romans, Ides, Terme dont les anciens Romains se servoient pour conter les Jours des Mois.

† The Romans called Idus eight Daies in every Month. In March, May, July, and October, they begin at the eighth Day of the Month, and continue to the fifteenth; in other Months they begin at the sixth Day, and continue to the thirteenth.

Sex Majus Nonas, October, Julius, & Mars, Quatuor & reliqui; venit Idus quibus octo.

Inde Dies reliquis omnes die esse. Calendas.

Where Note, that the last Day only is called Ides. For the first of these Daies is called the eighth Ides, the second, the seventh Ides; that is the eighth, or seventh Day before the Ides. And so of the rest. And therefore, when we speak in general of the Ides of March, May, July, and October, the same is to be understood of the fifteenth Day; and, on the other Months, of the thirteenth. Now the Ides seem to be called of Idus, an old Word that signifies to divide; for they commonly fall out near the midst of the Month, as aforesaid.

Idiom, or Propriety of Speech, Idome, ou Propriété d'une Langue.

To understand the French Idioms, entendre les Idioms de la Langue Française.

Idiot, a natural Fool, un Innocent, un Niais, un Benêt, qui a de la Simplicité, qui n'a pas assez de Jugement pour se conduire.

† Idiot is a Word originally Greek, which in that Language signifies properly a private Man, that hath no publick Office.

Among the Latines, it is taken for a Man of no Learnings. And, in the Sense of the Law of England, it imports the same as Non compos Mentis, or a natural Fool, one that is naturally born for weak of Understanding; that he cannot govern (or manage) his Inheritance. Now the King, by his Prerogative, has the Government of the Lands and Substance of such people. But, if a Fool were once Compos Mentis, and became a Fool by Chance or Misfortune, the King is not to have the Custody of him.

Neither is he accounted an Idiot, or natural Fool by the Laws of the Realm, that hath Understanding enough to measure a Yard of Cloth; to number Twenty rightly, to name the Daies of the Week, &c.

Idiotism, natural Folly, or Simplicity. Simplicité (parlant d'un Homme qui est simple, ou qui n'a pas le Sens commun.)

Idle, oisif, qui est dans l'Oisiveté; paresseux; negligent, sujet à la paresse, qui aime la paresse; sot, impertinent, inutile.

To take a Thing in Jest, prendre une chose en Jeu.

A Man that can't take a Jest, un Homme qui n'entend point raillerie, qui ne veut point souffrir qu'on le raille.

'Tis a weak Thing of him to take in earnest what you said to him but in Jest, il a tort d'avoir pris dans le serieux des Paroles que vous n'avez dites que pour rire.

Proverbs.

Better lose a Jest, than a Friend, il vaut mieux perdre sa Pointe, qu'un Ami; c'd.

il vaut mieux laisser raillerie à part, que d'en acheter le Plaisir par la perte d'un Ami.

When the Demand is a Jest, the Answer is a Scoff, il faut relancer la Raillerie par la Moquerie.

Or thus. As, to put a Jest upon one, se railler (se moquer) de quelqu'un.

To speak a Thing betwixt Jest and earnest, dire une chose d'un air un peu sérieux.

to Jest, se moquer, se jouer; bouffonner, plaisanter.

You Jest, vous vous moquez. I don't Jest, I am in earnest, je ne me moque point, je parle sérieusement.

Never Jest with sacred Things, il ne faut jamais se jouer des choses saintes, il n'en faut jamais parler qu'avec respect.

He loves to Jest, il aime à bouffonner, ou à plaisanter, il aime la raillerie ou plaisanterie.

Jester,

Sir! in what a point of view your office places You to the World. But what is the notice of this, or ten thousand Worlds; compar'd with that of the Being: whose Eye searches the deepest recesses of all Hearts. That Almighty Being, whose intentions, (nay determination), to reward Virtue, & punish Vice, You have taken upon you to declare. — It is Sir, most assuredly incumbent on You to be careful in keeping under those passions, which when regulated, will be an ornament to your profession, an honor to humanity, and a blessing to the World in general: Which that You may long be, is the desire, of

Your Sincere

Friend,

London

I hope the real friendship I have for Mrs Harris, & the good intention of this letter will plead an excuse for the ensuing freedom.

There are, if some say true; some parts of your conduct unguarded: it is reported you suffer Passion to hurry you to destruction, & then use Expletives which render you obnoxious to punishment.
How far your Accusers speak truth, Your own Heart must inform you:
but indeed I fear there is an impetuosity in your Temper, which may give a handle to Your Enemies: Nay that must greatly displease Your friends; As such Vehemence will consequently disrespect both the Christian, and the Gentleman.

It hurts me to remind You of these things, Yet I cannot forbear warning ^{you} against the dreadful effects of Violent Passion.

As Any propensity to a more diabolical Vice. — Evil Revenge.

Persons particularly in Your situation, should earnestly endeavor to cultivate the Godlike virtue of Humility. And forgive, not only as they would be forgiven: But for example also. As considers the Million - fifty years hence we will find it will be five Million, five hundred fifty thousand.

We find it will be five hundred thousand in the year 1800.

100 Years.

Jeſter, un Railleur, un Bouſon.

The King's Jeſter, le Bouſon du Roi.

Jeſting, Jeu, Raillerie, Bouſonnerie, Plaiſanterie, l'action de railler, de bouſonner, ou de plaiſanter.

To love Jeſting, aimer la Raillerie.

A fine way of Jeſting, une belle Maniere de railler.

I don't love his way of Jeſting, ſa Maniere de railler me deſait.

This Jeſting does not take with me, ce Jeu ne me plait pas.

Or thus Proverbially. As, There's no Jeſting with Edge tools, il n'eſt pas bon de badiner avec des Inſtrumens qui coupent.

Jeſting (Adj.) As, a jeſting Man, un Railleur. A jeſting Woman, une Railleuſe.

Jeſuati, a Monkly Order, Jeſuates, Ordre de Religieux.

☞ This Order begun at Sienna in Italy, and was inſtituted by John Colombin Anno 1365. So called, from their often having the name of Jeſus in their Mouthes. Pope Urban the fifth approved them, and injoyed them to wear a white Garment, a white Cover for their Head, a leather Girdle, and to go barefoot, uſing only woodeh Soles. Theſe were afterwards called Apoſtolici. But there is no Monastery of this Order in France.

Jeſuit, un Jeſuite.

☞ This is a Religious Order, otherwiſe called the Society of Jeſus; firſt founded by Ignatius Loyola, a Spaniard, and Conſirmed by Pope Paul the III. Anno 1540. To the Three Vows of Poverty, Obedience, and Chaſtity, common to all other Orders, their Founder added the Vow of Miſſion, in words to this effect.

[Moreover we judge it expedient, for our greater Devotion to the See Apoſtolick, and fuller Abnegation of our own Wills and Pleaſures, that the Profeſſed of this Society, beſides the common Bond of the Three Vows, be further tied to this ſpecial Vow; that whatever the Pope for the Time being ſhall command, relating to the Salvation of Souls and Propagation of Faith, they ſhall be bound to execute, without Tergiverſation or Excuse, whether they ſhall be ſent to the Turks or Infidels, or to thoſe that are commonly called the Indians, or unto any other Hereticks or Schiſmaticks whatſoever.]

This Order, being grown high in the World by their great Activity and politick Practices, is become the Envy of all the other Orders. Nay, the World it ſelf is grown ſo much out of humour with this Society, (whether right or wrong, I ſhall not determine) that none but Men of ſhrewd Parts as they are can ſo ſmoothly get up, and ſwim againſt the Stream.

Jeſuitical, de Jeſuite.

As, a Jeſuitical Intreague, un Intrigue de Jeſuite.

Jeſuits Powder, or Quinquina, Poudre de Jeſuite, le Quinquina.

The Jeſuits Morals, la Morale des Jeſuites.

Jeſuited, devenu Jeſuite, qui donne dans les Maximes des Jeſuites.

Jeſus, Jeſus.

Our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, Jeſus Chriſt nôtre Sauveur, ou nôtre Redempteur.

'Tis observable, that the Name of Jeſus, in the China Tongue, ſignifies the riſing Sun.

Jet. See Jeat.

to Jet, or run up and down, courir d'un côté & d'autre.

To jet it along, to go like a proud Fop, marcher fierement, ou d'un air fier.

Jetſon, a Sea Term. See Floſſon.

Jetting. See to Jet.

Jew, un Juif.

He looks like a Jew, il a la mine d'un Juif. A Woman Jew, une Juive.

She is a handſom Jew, c'eſt une belle Juive.

The Jews are a ſtubborn People, les Juifs ſont une Nation revêche.

The Jews were once the ſelect People of God, and now they are the Scum of the World, les Juifs étoient autrefois le Peuple de Dieu, un Peuple qu'il avoit choiſi, aujourd'hui ils ſont le Rebut de toute la Terre.

The Jews, crucified our Saviour, and wait ſtill for a Meſſiah to make 'em a Glorious and Conquering Nation, ce ſont les Juifs qui ont crucifié nôtre Sauveur, & ces Malheureux attendent encore un Meſſie, qui doit (à ce qu'ils croient) les remettre ſur pié, & les rendre une Nation Triſtante.

To live according to the Jews, vivre à la maniere des Juifs, vivre à la Juſaïque.

The Jews Doctrine, or Religion, la Doctrine, ou la Religion des Juifs, le Juſaïsme.

To follow the Jews Tenets, être dans les Sentimens des Juifs.

Jews ears, ſorte d'Excroiſſance qui vient à la racine du Sureau.

Jews Trump, Trompe.

Jewel, Joyau, Choe de Prix (ſoit Bague, Collier, ou Perle.)

To be rich in Jewels, être riche en Joyaux.

Jewel eſt auſſi un Terme de Tendreſſe, dont on appelle ſur tout les petits Enfans.

Jeweller, Joüalier, Marchand qui trafique de Pierres.

As, a rich Jeweller, un riche Joüalier.

A Jeweller's Wife, Joüaliere, ou Femme de Joüalier.

Jewellers Ware, or Jewels, Joüalerie, Marchandiſe de Joüalier.

Jewiſh (from Jew) Juſaïque, à la maniere des Juifs.

I F

If, ſi; pourveu que; quand, quand mêmes, quos que.

As, if pleaſe God, ſ'il plaie à Dieu. If I can, ſi je puis.

If I am not miſtaken, ſi je ne me trompe.

This will eaſe your Pain, if it cannot cure it, ſi ceci ne peut pas guerir vôtre Douleur, du moins il la ſoulagera.

I will bear it, if not contentedly, yet courageuſly, ſi je ne puis pas le ſupporter avec plaſiſr, je le ferai du moins avec reſolution.

He ſpeaks to me, as if I were his Servant, il me parle, comme ſi j'étois ſon Valet.

If you do but take my part, pourveu ſeulement que vous preniez mon parti.

If ſo be that he will conſent to it, pourveu qu'il veuille y conſentir.

I will do it, if I ſhould die for't, je veux le faire, quand il m'en coûteroit la Vie.

I muſt have it, if it coſt never ſo much, il faut que je l'aie, quoi qu'il m'en coûte, ou à quelque prix que ce ſoit.

He ſhould have been, if not puniſhed, yet ſecured, quand mêmes il n'auroit pas dû être châtié, on devoit du moins le mettre en lieu de Seurté.

Or thus. As, he is a great Oratour, if not the greateſt, c'eſt un grand Orateur, pour ne pas dire le plus grand.

He made as if he were mad, il faiſoit ſemblant d'être hors du Sens.

As if one ſhould ſay, comme qui diroit.

They look as if they had deſerted, ils ont la mine d'avoir deſerté.

Theſe Things do not look as if they would be of any long Continuance, ces Choeſes n'ont pas la mine de durer long tems.

But ſometimes If, in its firſt Senſe, is elegantly left out in Engliſh; as in theſe and the like Expreſſions.

Had you been wiſe, you would have followed my Counſel, ſi vous aviez été ſage, vous auriez ſuivi mon Conſeil.

Had he come but an hour ſooner, he would have met me at home, ſ'il étoit venu une heure plus tôt, il m'auroit trouvé au Logis.

If (Subſtantly uſed.) As, without Ifs or Ands, ſans barguigner.

I G

Ignoble, bas, roturier, qui n'eſt pas noble; bas, lâche, mal-honnête.

☞ Ignoramus is alſo a Law-word, properly uſed by the Grand Inqueſt, impanelled in the Inquiſition of Cauſes criminal and publick; and written upon the Bill, whereby any Crime is offered to their Conſideration, when they miſlike their Evidence, as defective and too weak to make good the Preſentment. The effect of which Word ſo written is, that all further Inquiry upon that Party for that Fault is thereby ſtopped, and he delivered without further Answer. Which hath a Reſemblance with that Cuſtom of the ancient Romans; where the Judges, when they abſolved a Perſon accused, did write A upon a little Table provided for that purpoſe, which ſtood for Abſolvimus. And, if they judged him Guilty, they writ C, for Condemnamus. But, if they found the Cauſe difficult and doubtful, they wrote N L, that is Non Liquet.
